STATE AROUSED.

MAY USE TROOPS TO END TRACK GAMBLING

Gov. Hughes, Angered by Defeat of Bills, Bent on Stern Repressive Action.

Mass Meetings of Citizens in Several New York Citie Denounce Senators for Failure to Support Measures Advocated by Executive, Who Cries "State Will Be Ablaze Till Legislature Acts."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gov. Hughes, according to information received from Albany, is preparing for a coup at the opening of the racing season in this State, which takes place at Aqueduct on Wednesday.

Angered at the refusal of the Legislature to kill race track gambling the Governor is reported to be bent on repressive measures of the sternest kind.

Those who claim to know his mind say he will stop at nothing short of the exercise of the utmost power vested in the chief executive of the commonwealth to accomplish his purpose.

This would involve as a last resort, it is pointed out, the calling out of the militia, a step which Gov. Folk of Missouri was compelled to threaten to take before he succeeded in stopping gambling at the race tracks in that State.

Gov. Hughes is said to contend that the Percy-Gray law is openly violated on the race tracks by the manner in which the bookmakers register the bets, and that by compelling strict and absolute compliance with the law, gambling at the tracks can be and shall be ended by the authorities over whom the chief executive holds the power of command.

WAY IS CLEAR.

Inquiry tonight showed that the Queens borough authorities, despite the reported hint from Albany, are not disposed to take the initiative in interfering with betting at Aqueduct, so that the way is clear for the Governor to step in. Dist.-Atty. Darrien of Queens, himself a Republican and a political adherent of Gov. Hughes, said tonight:

"After a thorough canvass of the legal aspects of the Percy-Gray law, I have no hesitancy in saying that I do not see any way clear to take the ... betting at the ...

SENATOR SCORED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

UTICA (N. Y.) April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Unless Senator Ackroyd sees fit to ignore the almost unanimous consent of his constituents in Oneida county, Gov. Hughes today secured another vote for his anti-race-track-gambling measures.

The Governor came here by request of representative citizens, and after making an impassioned speech on the subject resolutions, calling on the Senator to support the bills which a few days ago he voted against, were adopted with a roar that could be heard for blocks and which disturbed the quiet of the Sabbath.

Clergymen and laymen joined in the meeting in the Majestic Theater, and the playhouse was crowded to the limit. Three thousand persons shouted aye when a resolution was offered condemning the Senator's course in voting against the bill.

Hon. John D. Kernan, Democratic leader and former State Railroad Commissioner, presided, and introduced the Governor.

"There is no doubt," thundered the Executive, "what the people desire, and this State will be ablaze from Montauk Point to Buffalo, and from Ogdensburg to Bay Ridge until the Legislature obeys the mandate of the people.

UNIVERSAL OBJECTION.

"It is quite evident to me that the people of Utica have something on their hearts, and I can assure you that you are not alone in your appreciation of the serious importance of the question that is now before us—people all over the State are outspoken in their condemnation of the failure to rid our State of a notorious abuse.

"We have representatives, and we tell them in the constitution what they shall do and not do. Representative government is a failure if they do not obey.

"The Legislature has the choice of penalties, and the Legislature says: 'You miserable scoundrel, who ply your despicable trade outside of race tracks, you are a felon. You miserable scoundrel, if you do the same thing on a race track, you shall suffer nothing unless some one sues you.'"

NOW POLITICAL ISSUE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NIAGARA (N. Y.) April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Both Democratic and Republican party leaders in the Forty-seventh Senatorial District have held conferences today, all about the approaching special election. Candidates are beginning to present themselves on both sides.

Every Republican lawyer in Niagara Falls has got his lightning rod up. The common understanding is that the Republican nominee will be one who will stay by the Hughes's policy, while the Democratic candidate will be against the race-track bills.

However, should the Democratic candidate publicly promise to support the bills that party might win a Senator to fill the vacancy, but unless there should be an independent candidate the race-track men would not be in it.

SCATHING REBUKE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SCHENECTADY (N. Y.) April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At a mass meeting held in this city this afternoon, attended by between 1200 and 1400 people, and presided over by Dean Ripton, acting head of Union College, Senator Wemple, one of the opponents of the anti-race-track gambling bills, was severely censured.

In spite of the earnest request that Senator Wemple attend, he was not present. Perhaps the most convincing and scathing rebuke which was made from among a number of speeches was by Dean Ripton. He said:

"Referring to Grady and McCarren and their followers, with these ignoble few we find our Senator.

"Why did he vote against the bills? It was not because he thought it was right, I know that. After the second hearing he told me so. He said that if he voted the way he thought was right he would vote for the bills."

WILCOX DENOUNCED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

AUBURN (N. Y.) April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Members of the Church Federation of Men's Clubs of the city of Auburn, gathered in the First Methodist Episcopal Church today and applauded while speakers denounced Senator Benjamin M. Wilcox for voting against the anti-race-track gambling bills.

Senator Wilcox is a member of the church as was his father before him. He was not present at the meeting and the pastor of the church, who was one of the speakers, said that it was only fair to explain that the telegram notifying him of the meeting and inviting him to be present and defend himself had been sent to Albany and was sent back.

ROUNDLY SCORED.

IS NEW YORK'S WORST CITIZEN.

SO SAYS MINISTER OF TRINITY CHURCH CORPORATION.

Asserts It Is Wealthiest and Most Mysterious Monopoly in the World. Received Title to Its Lands by What He Calls Legislative Juggery.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In a sermon today the Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters bitterly attacked Trinity Church corporation, describing it as "New York's worst citizen," and "the wealthiest and most mysterious monopoly in the world."

The value of its real estate alone in New York is estimated, he said, at anywhere from $40,000,000 to $100,000,000, and its revenue in rents is second only to the Astors.

After telling how through legislative juggery the title of the lands, deeded originally to "the rector and inhabitants of New York City in communion with the Protestant Episcopal Church of England," were transferred to "the rector, church wardens and vestrymen of Trinity corporation in the City of New York," Dr. Peters said:

"Today there is no more mysterious order in the world, for no one but the rector, the vestry, the wardens and the controller know where the money goes, and for nearly one hundred years no officer has ever made to the communicants of Trinity, to whom the property ostensibly belongs, any accounts of his stewardship.

"The corporation has been absolutely impervious to all attacks of the newspapers and magazines and the efforts of the Legislature to find the reason for the whole mystery. The 7000 communicants of Trinity parish have no more voice in the management of the affairs than they have in St. Patrick's Cathedral. It is the closest corporation in the world.

"Trinity paid in taxes alone in 1906 $81,412.03, indicating an assessed value of $18,000,000, on which it pays taxes, but Trinity's favorite leases provide that the tenants shall pay all taxes or assessments and make all repairs. Behind this useful clause much wealth is in hiding.

"We know that the rector gets $25,000 per annum, a free house and perquisites, which makes his income about $50,000 a year, to preach only occasionally the gospel of Him who, when on earth, had nowhere to lay His head."

MILLIONS TO DEFEND RUM.

Vast Sum Estimated Cost to Liquor Interests of Cincinnati in Fighting Anti-Saloon Agitation.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CINCINNATI, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The anti-saloon movement in Ohio, adjacent States, and the South, it is estimated, has cost the brewery and liquor interests of this city more than $2,000,000 loss in business.

The effects of temperance agitation on the brewery business was set out in a suit filed in the Common Pleas Court asking for a receiver for the Bellevue Brewing Company.

The suit was filed by minority stockholders, who allege that the proceeds from the sale of beer had fallen off more than $33,000 from last year. They also aver that the company has advanced more than $45,000 for saloon licenses and owns much real estate in dry territory or localities that will become dry.

No schedule of liabilities was filed, but an accounting by officers of the company is demanded.

ROCKEFELLER RAPIDLY AGING.

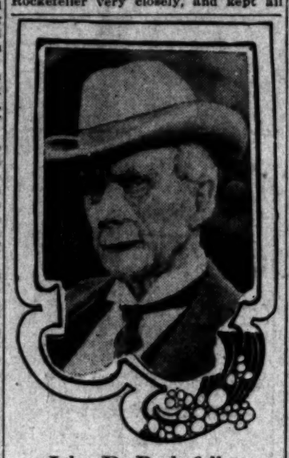
LOOKS TEN YEARS OLDER THAN WHEN LAST IN PUBLIC.

He Is Much Thinner, His Shoulders Perceptibly Bent, and His Face Carries a Far-Away Worried Look. Does not Walk With His Usual Brisk Step.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] John D. Rockefeller, leading the two children of his daughter, Mrs. McCormick, by the hand, walked this morning from his home to the Fifth-avenue Baptist Church, where he joined Mrs. Rockefeller.

A private detective followed Mr. Rockefeller very closely, and kept all but intimate friends at a distance. A special patrolman was at the church. He and the detective escorted Mr. Rockefeller home after the services.



John D. Rockefeller,

from a late photograph showing how the Standard Oil magnate has aged recently. The threats against his grandchildren have added greatly to the millionaire's worries.

Although he said he was feeling very well, general comment was made on all sides because of Mr. Rockefeller's changed appearance. He looks at least ten years older than when he last appeared at the church in the fall, his shoulders were perceptibly bent, and he did not walk with the same brisk step. He looked as if he had lost twenty pounds, and his former thick, full neck was considerably thinned. Neither did he appear as cheerful as before, for his face wore a strange, far-away, worried look.

He is much devoted to his grandchildren, and the threats of Black Hand blackmailers in Chicago have given the entire family much anxiety. It is because of these threats against the lives of the children that the McCormicks are taking them abroad for a tour. They have been closely guarded during the journey East, and private detectives will accompany them abroad. International police will also be asked to assist in protecting them from assassination.

JACKIES FOR PACIFIC.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Seven hundred bluejackets have been ordered from Newport and Norfolk to the Pacific Coast by the way of Colon and thence to Guam and Manila by a transport, to replace men on the Asiatic division whose terms are about to expire.

"JACOB A. RIIS IS GRAFTER."

So Asserts Father Curry, Rector of St. James Church, New York.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jacob A. Riis, characterized by President Roosevelt as "the most useful citizen" in New York, was assailed as a "grafter" by the Rev. Father James B. Curry, rector of the Church of St. James, in James street, today. Incidentally, settlement workers were attacked, both as to their motives and methods.

"They are exploiting the people of this section, which they call the 'slums' and 'social swamp' by picture and story in newspapers and periodicals for the accumulation of large revenue," said Father Curry, in an address to his parishioners at all the masses.

THE FLEET.

FLEET REPORTS ON SCHEDULE

SAN DIEGO PREPARED TO GIVE IT GRAND RECEPTION.

Picnics and Balls Planned for Officers, and Baseball Games and Wild West Shows for Men—Red Signal Fires Along Beach, and Fireworks in Bay.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN DIEGO, April 12.—The Atlantic fleet is reported tonight by wireless as well along on its way to San Diego, and will be in position to anchor precisely at 1 o'clock on next Tuesday afternoon.

The ships will lie in division formation, or four lines of four vessels each, off Coronado Beach. Thousands of persons made the trip to Coronado today to view the anchorage ground. Other throngs gathered along the wharves to get a near view of the little tender Yankton and the repair ship Panther, which made the notable trip with the fleet through Magellan Straits and are now anchored in the harbor.

The last details of the welcoming ceremonies in this, the first home port to be touched by the fleet, have been completed. The ships will remain here four days, before resuming their journey up the coast.

Upon casting anchor Tuesday afternoon the flagship Connecticut will be visited by Mayor Forward of San Diego, and by Chairman William Clayton of the local Fleet Celebration Committee. They will extend to Rear-Admiral Thomas a formal greeting, and will submit to him for approval the detailed programme of the four days' stay.

RED SIGNAL FIRES.

Tuesday evening red signal fires along the beach will burn a welcome to the ships, and in return the men-of-war will be illuminated by thousands of incandescent bulbs from 8 until 11 p.m. A searchlight drill will add to the evening spectacle. A banquet to the flag and commanding officers at the Hotel del Coronado Tuesday night will round out the first day's events.

On Wednesday, April 15, the full fleet brigade of nearly 5000 men will be landed from the ships at noon, and at 2 p.m., will begin a parade through the principal streets to the city park, where the formal exercises of welcome will be held. Here Gov. Gillett and Mayor John F. Forward will voice the greetings of commonwealth and municipality.

Thomas will be asked to accept in behalf of himself and the officers and men of the fleet the freedom of the city. He will also be presented with a silver-mounted, cut-glass buffet service, as a token of the appreciation of the residents of this city.

He will accept, in trust for Admiral Evans, a golden key to the city, presented by the citizens, and a sword given by the G.A.R. It is expected the admiral will make a few remarks.

GRAND BALL.

The city and the fleet will be illuminated Wednesday night, and there will also be on this night a ball at the Hotel del Coronado, in honor of Admiral Thomas and the other officers of the fleet. Admirals Sperry and Emory will be presented with gold medals in commemoration of their visit.

On Thursday there will be a picnic in the country for fifty officers and boat races for the men. Thursday night there will be an elaborate display of fireworks from a barge anchored in the bay.

Friday forenoon and afternoon the enlisted men will be given the freedom of the city, and all sorts of entertainments have been planned for them. Practically all of the theaters will open their doors to the men in uniform. There will be baseball games, a wild west show and innumerable features. Friday night a ball to the junior officers at Hotel del Coronado will mark the close of the fleet's visit, the ships getting under way at 6 a.m., on Saturday, for San Pedro and the other ports of Los Angeles.

Florida Governor Orders Entire National Guard to Pensacola to Handle Strikers.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

JACKSONVILLE (Fla.) April 12.—Gov. Broward today ordered every command of the State militia to proceed at once to Pensacola.

The electric railway company has decided to start cars on its lines tomorrow, and the troops are called out as a measure of precaution against further trouble.

At 6:30 p.m. 170 men and the Gatling gun detachment left for Pensacola.

A special from Live Oak states that the Suwanee Guards, the Tallahassee, Apalachio and other companies had proceeded to Pensacola on the morning train.

WORKMEN INJURED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PENSACOLA (Fla.) April 12.—Out of sixty-five men brought here to break the street car strike, less than ten were able to get out yesterday as a result of attacks made on them by strikers. There are sixty at the police station with bruises and other hurts.

Ten Million Dollar Fire in Chelsea.

Massachusetts City Half in Ruins After All-Day Conflagration.

Ten Thousand People Homeless, Four Dead, and Many Injured.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, April 13.—At an early hour this morning the ruins of the burned district in Chelsea were under guard of fourteen companies of the State Militia and Marines from the Charleston Navy Yard, and the city was put under martial law to prevent looting. The soldiers were supplied with ball cartridges.

BOSTON (Mass.) April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A fire, started by boys and swept by a northwest gale to ever-increasing fury, destroyed nearly a thousand buildings and caused a loss of $10,000,000 in Chelsea, a Boston suburb across the Mystic River from Charleston, today.

At least four persons were burned to death. Their bodies have been recovered from the ruins. Dozens fleeing, were injured; ten thousand persons were made homeless; thousands lost all their belongings, although they removed them again and again, beyond the leaping flames's reach, as they thought.

Among the more seriously injured are:

Fireman Carroll of Charlestown, overcome by smoke and burned about head; condition critical.

Engineman Charles Carroll, Boston, overcome and badly burned; condition critical.

Mrs. Rose Flas, Marine Hospital, in bad condition. Gave birth to child yesterday, and removed from burning house.

Capt. Preble, Linn department, dangerously burned.

Chief Evans, Melrosedepartment, face and hands burned.

Capt. Williams, Chelsea, head and shoulders burned.

Frank A. Chase, Chelsea, overcome by smoke and suffering from heart trouble; condition serious.

At least two children were born during the fire.

The fire started at 10:40 o'clock this morning and was not brought under control until 9 o'clock tonight. The manufacturing, retail and tenement districts of the city practically were destroyed, while large portions of the residential districts were swept by the flames. Half of the city is in ruins tonight.

A high wind, which at times attained a velocity of sixty miles an hour, drove the flames from block to block, rendering efforts of the firemen of Chelsea, Boston, East Boston, Charlestown and many other cities practically of no avail.

Cinders and firebrands were carried for blocks by the gale and fire broke out in remote sections of the city where residents believed themselves safe. Brands blown across to East Boston started a fire there that destroyed five houses and blew up several large oil tanks. The burning oil resulted in a cloud of smoke which caused midnight darkness and was seen so far away as the New Hampshire coast. So rapid was the spread of the flames thousands of persons were unable to save any of their possessions. Many barely escaped with their lives.

MANY BUILDINGS BURN.

Churches, hospitals, banks, factories, dwelling houses, tenements, stores, and public buildings, including the big City Hall, were destroyed. The path of the flames was a mile and a half long and three-quarters of a mile broad. Practically every building in the burned area, which is more than a square mile, was destroyed.

Marines and sailors from the United States navy yard to the south and the militia from Boston were called out to preserve order and to protect furniture and household goods of the residents. In some places the guards were compelled to keep the crowds back with fixed bayonets.

The persons believed to have been killed are those who rushed back despite the guards to rescue forgotten valuables and others who were unable to leave their homes, so rapid was the approach of the fire. The injured were firemen, policemen and citizens who were overcome with smoke or burned before they could escape from the quickly approaching flames.

In two churches destroyed the congregations were listening to their pastors when the buildings were enveloped in flames. In both instances the preachers advised their congregations to pass out quietly. None were injured. Those attending the services did not know that a serious fire was spreading until their churches were in flames. In two hospitals destroyed, the patients were removed before the fire approached the buildings.

RELIEF WORK PLANNED.

TWENTY-SIX MORE DELEGATES FOR TAFT.

Secretary Maintains His Leadership but His Opponents Say It Will Be Impossible for Him to Get Enough Votes to Land Nomination.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The New York Herald figures sixty-eight votes shy of nominating Taft on the first ballot at Chicago, not counting 188 votes from the Southern States which are contested, and sixty votes of the doubtful variety. The Herald's table follows:

Total delegates to Republican national convention, 980. Necessary to choice, 491.

Taft's apparent strength:

Arkansas	18	Nebraska	16
California	20	North Carolina	24
Colorado	10	North Dakota	8
Connecticut	14	Ohio	42
Delaware	1	Oklahoma	11
Illinois	2	Oregon	8

Maryland	16	Virginia	10
Massachusetts (one-half)		Alaska	2
	14	Arizona	2
Michigan	22	Hawaii	3
Minnesota	22	New Mexico	2
Missouri	30	Philippines	2
New Hampshire	4
New York	4	Total	423

Hughes's apparent strength—Massachusetts, 14; Missouri, 4; New Hampshire (one half,) 4; New York, 74. Total, 96.

La Follette's apparent strength—Wisconsin, 24. Total, 24.

Southern States contested (chiefly for Foraker)—Alabama, 22; Florida, 10; Georgia, 28; Louisiana, 18; Mississippi, 20; South Carolina, 18; Tennessee, 24; Texas, 36; Virginia (part,) 14. Total, 188.

Foraker will have two districts in Ohio, making four delegates, and the two delegates of the District of Columbia.

Doubtful or battleground States—Montana, 6; New Jersey, 24; Nevada, 6; Rhode Island (probably anti-Taft,) 8; Utah, 6; Vermont, 8; Porto Rico (probably anti-Taft,) 2. Total, 60.

TAFT TO PUSH FIGHT.

Chicago Headquarters to Open This Week and Second Ballot Favor Will Be Sought.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Taft headquarters will be opened in Chicago the latter part of this week, following the holding of the last of the Illinois district conventions.

Atty.-Gen. Wade Ellis of Ohio, it is understood, will be in charge. Three rooms in the Great Northern Hotel will be thrown open to the friends of the Secretary of War and from them a vigorous campaign of publicity calculated to bring their candidate second ballot favor (if he needs it) in "favorite son" States, and first choice instructions in others will be conducted.

BRYAN WEAK IN EAST.

New York Democrats Plan to Send Uninstructed Delegates to Convention at Denver.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 12.—Whether the Democratic State Convention, which meets in Carnegie Hall in this city on Tuesday next, will vote to send an uninstructed delegation to the national convention at Denver in July is a question which is exciting the keenest interest among the followers of the various candidates.

The State Committee at a recent meeting here, with but one dissenting vote, voted to send a delegation unfettered by instructions, and the organization plans to carry out this programme at the State convention.

Chairman William J. Connors of the State Committee has said that there is very little real sentiment throughout the State for the nomination of W. J. Bryan and the majority of delegates elected to the State convention from the various counties have been left free to act as the organization wills. Enough Bryan sentiment remains, however, to give promise of a lively convention, and there is a probability of a warm debate in the Committee on Resolutions.

Chairman Connors, while favoring an uninstructed delegation to Denver, has expressed the belief that Gov. Johnson of Minnesota is the strongest candidate in the Democratic field of Presidential possibilities. Gov. Johnson's friends are watching the action of New York and Pennsylvania, both of which, it is said, will send their delegates uninstructed to Denver.

The formal launching of the candidacy of Judge George Gray of Delaware, at Dover, on Tuesday, is expected, and his followers would welcome an uninstructed delegation from New York with the attendant possibility of winning the New Yorkers over to Delaware's candidate.

PUSHES FIGHT FOR REFORM.

Sir Edward Grey, Confirmed in Portfolio by Premier Asquith, on Macedonian Situation.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There is not to be a break in the British policy as to Macedonian reform. Sir Edward Grey, confirmed in his portfolio by Mr. Asquith, will press forward all the more vigorously for the establishment of civilized conditions in the three misgoverned vilayets.

His proposal is merely a revival of Lansdowne's. It calls for the appointment of an independent Governor-General with complete control of the civil and criminal administration, not removable without the consent of the European powers.

WILL BE UNINSTRUCTED.

New York Democratic Delegates to Go to Denver Convention Untrammeled by Instructions.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Democratic State Convention, which meets in Carnegie Hall Tuesday, is expected to furnish more than one sensation.

A number of delegates appeared at the Waldorf-Astoria and Hoffman House tonight, but none of them seemed to know just what is going to be done. State Chairman "Pingy" Connors held court at the Waldorf, and received his supporters with the amiable declaration: "We are going to have harmony. I don't know of any trouble."

When asked if he and Boss Murphy would control the convention, he replied: "Sure thing. We've got most of the delegates because we are in right."

The only thing settled is that the four delegates-at-large will be uninstructed, though Norman E. Mack, the national committeeman from New York, may attempt to secure the indorsement of Bryan. He declined to say today whether he would insist on a Bryan plank. There will be about thirty-four Bryan delegates in the convention.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Last week witnessed the formal entry into the Presidential race of all the "favorite sons" candidates.

Senator Knox was given the sixty-four district votes of Pennsylvania, leaving only the four delegates-at-large unnamed; Senator La Follette captured twenty-five of the twenty-six votes from Wisconsin, one delegate from the Tenth District declaring for Secretary Taft, and Gov. Hughes received thirty-eight votes from New York.

Secretary Taft continued to maintain his lead. He gained twenty-eight instructed delegates during the week, bringing his total up to 226. His managers claim a total of 232 out of the 484 delegates already selected. All other candidates are allowed an aggregate of 201 votes. Thirty of the delegates instructed for Taft have contests, thus leaving a clear strength of 196. Up to this time, fifty-five uninstructed delegates have been chosen, although the Taft managers count on only fifty-one.

The allied opposition to Secretary Taft dispute the claims advanced by his managers. He is allowed a gain of only twenty-seven delegates during the week, and an aggregate strength of only 176 delegates. A statement given out by the "allies" says:

"Of the instructed delegates elected up to this time, Secretary Taft has 176, and the field 223. Giving to Secretary Taft credit for all uninstructed and contested delegates who may vote for him, the opposition has a majority of eighty-four over him at this time. The number of delegates instructed for other candidates, but with leanings toward Secretary Taft, concerning which much is being said, is more than offset by the number of delegates instructed for Secretary Taft who have leanings toward other candidates. The situation is more satisfactory to the opposition at this time than for some weeks, and justifies the prediction that Secretary Taft cannot be nominated on the first or any other ballot."

The situation may be summed up as follows:

"NIGHT GOWN PARADE."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A faculty investigation is expected to follow a "night gown parade," participated in by the men students of Wheaton College following a victory in an oratorical contest with the Greenville College. Residents of the town were aroused from their sleep by the violent ringing of the college bell and the glare of a fire. Believing that a serious conflagration was imminent they dressed and hurried to the college campus. What they saw there sent many of the more decorous back to their homes and formed the basis of the complaint. Fully a hundred men students dancing gleefully about a large bonfire in their night gowns is what they saw.

PRAISE FOR JAPS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "The love of beauty helps to make the Japanese a great nation," said John H. Deforest at this evening's service at the First Congregational Church, Oak Park. "They are the only people who have great moral heroes, and when you read of their deeds you immediately are reminded of the acts of Christ. The supposed Japanese menace is due to the general ignorance of the public here, and the malicious work of disappointed war correspondents and military attaches."

BIG MISSIONARY MEETING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The most important missionary meeting ever held by the Home and Foreign Boards of the Methodist Episcopal church in America will begin in Chicago tomorrow. The conference is for the purpose of formulating plans for world-wide evangelism.

WOULD BAR BACHELORS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Unmarried men will not stand a ghost of a show at college professorships if President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University has his way. He would employ only married men in the positions of professors, he told his hearers at his lecture at Northwestern University yesterday.

TO KEEP LAK EPURE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] War was declared on sewerage in Lake Michigan and poor sanitary conditions in all places by representatives of forty-eight cities from four States that met in Chicago yesterday. Prominent citizens of Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois met and discussed plans for keeping the waters of Lake Michigan clean and disposing of sewerage in the various municipalities which they represented.

THIRD SET OF TRIPLETS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STERLING (Ill.) April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Triplets, the third set, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Johnson of Ohio Station this morning. Mrs. Johnson is 36 years old.

ST. PAUL (Minn.) April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Daniel Rogers Noyes, one of the leading Presbyterian laymen in the United States, is seriously ill at his home here and may not live through the night.

NO MORE HARD LUCK FOR HIM.

Pennsylvania Man Strikes Oil and Riches After Lifetime Search.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Cy Ferguson no longer holds the title of "King of Hard Luck Operators" in the West Virginia oil fields.

After years of failure, Cy has struck it rich, and yesterday four representatives of the Standard Oil Company came here and offered him $1,500,000 for his holdings in the Follansbee field. Cy shook his head because he knows his wells are worth double that amount.

Ferguson is a butcher, and all his life he has been trying to find oil. Every cent he made in his meat market at McDonald, Pa., he would sink in "dry holes." Six months ago he ventured over into the Follansbee field, just across the West Virginia line, to try his luck again, and this time he was successful.

BALL PLAYERS ARRESTED.

Police in New York Fight on Sunday Games, Take Four of Team and Umpire to Jail.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Acting under order of Police Inspector Hogan of Queensborough, the police made the first arrests of the season today for Sunday baseball playing.

They broke up a game at West Brighton and took four players and the umpire prisoners. The Alaskas of West Brighton had a game scheduled with the Dorers of New York City and 2500 persons were gathered at the former's field to hear the cry "play ball." Pitcher Rankin of the home nine had taken his place in the box and when Umpire Daily tossed a bright new ball to him he hurled it across the plate amid the roar of the expectant "fans."

Then the police took a hand in the game.

HUESTON FAVORED.

Form Players Pick Champion to Win Pool Tourney, Although He Must Play Seven Experts.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Experts who have followed closely the form displayed in the national pool tournament now here, pick Thomas A. Hueston of St. Louis, present world's champion, to win the tournament. He is facing seven classy competitors, but he is the fastest and most spectacular player of the list. His superior ability as a billiard player gives him a decided advantage over the others, with the possible exception of De Oro.

His knowledge of the use of "English" enables him to secure position on it shot at almost any angle and after the balls are once scattered he has them at his mercy. De Oro also is a fine billiardist, but he lacks the class displayed by Hueston in all forms of playing.

EFFECTS CARTED AWAY.

PATERSON (N. J.) April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That the anarchist group has decided to abandon this city as a center of activity was indicated today when the office of La Questione Sociale, the anarchist publication recently barred from the mails by the Federal government, was dismantled.

The work of removal was begun at an early hour this morning, and the entire equipment was carried out.

The stuff was carted away in vans, but it is impossible to learn its destination.

Wounded Deputies Are not Seriously Hurt.

Bloodhounds on Trail of the Fugitive Robbers.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) April 12.—A special to the Post-Intelligencer from North Bend says the prisoner wounded in the fight north of that place yesterday afternoon with Deputy Sheriff Starwich and Strey, has confessed that he was with the four men who shot and killed Marshal Harry Miller at Kent, on Thursday night. He is a Montenegran, and says his name is Michael Alegice.

Deputy Sheriff McGuire left with him for Seattle in an automobile tonight the North Bend authorities, fearing that the Montenegrans who work in the railroad camps might make an attempt to rescue him.

Deputy Starwich, wounded last night, is not seriously hurt. The three men who escaped after the fight have gone north. One of them was wounded in the side, and left a trail of blood, which the posses picked up this morning and renewed the chase, dividing north of here, and sending bloodhounds on the scent.

Deputy Storey, who was wounded in the right thigh, says he and Starwich fought in the open, while the highwaymen hid behind trees and stumps.

"The men directed their fire on Starwich," said Storey, "and when I was shot I only had one shell left. I kept my feet after I was shot, and fired my last cartridge in my revolver and reached for my small gun, but became faint and fell.

"Starwich ran over to me and secured my loaded pistol, for he was out of ammunition. He emptied this, and the men ran for the woods. Between thirty and forty shots were fired during the fight."

TAKES STRYCHNINE ROUTE.

Cashier of Washington Bank Commits Suicide Because of Worry and Domestic Infelicity.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SPOKANE, April 12.—G. S. Thomas, cashier and stockholder of the First State Bank of Newport, Wash., committed suicide Saturday night at the Colonial Hotel in this city by taking strychnine. The body was found this morning.

Domestic trouble and the nervous tension of carrying the bank through the financial stringency are ascribed as the causes. His domestic infelicity dates from four years back, since which time he and his wife have been separated.

His son, 21 years old, is in a sanitarium near Portland, under treatment for an injury received in a Great Northern wreck at Milan, Wash., two years ago.

Negotiations for the sale of the bank to a group of Spokane capitalists were completed last week, and the new company will take hold tomorrow. The bank is said to be in the best shape by the new and the old officials, and Mr. Thomas's accounts are straight.

STRAIN CAUSES SUICIDE.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) April 12.—Suffering from nervousness which has been following him since he worked at his telegraph key in the Western Union office for fifty consecutive hours after the earthquake in San Francisco, Jay A. Gamage today committed suicide by shooting. He was 30 years old, unmarried, and was employed at a suburban station by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE.

Programme for Reception and Entertainment of Fleet Is Practically Finished.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—The official programme for the reception and entertainment of the Atlantic battleship fleet during its stay in the ports of the western coast are practically completed. They provide for a round of parades, athletic sports, banquets and sight-seeing excursions for officers and crews.

The illness of Rear-Admiral Evans, and the probability that he will be able to participate only in a small degree, if at all, in the ceremonies, has cast the only shadow on the arrangements.

The fleet will be formally welcomed to California waters by Gov. Gillett and staff at San Diego, next Wednesday. After visiting San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Monterey and Santa Cruz, the fleet will shortly after noon, May 6, enter the Golden Gate at flood tide, and anchor in San Francisco Bay for a lengthy visit. The following day, May 7, eighty companies of sailors and marines will take part in a big parade composed of 2000 Federal troops under Brig.-Gen. Funston, and a number of civic societies.

The climax of the celebration will take place the following day, when Secretary of the Navy Metcalf will review the fleet, which will then consist of forty-six warships of various types.

These strictly official functions completed, there will follow a series of entertainments of various kinds.

The transportation companies will make excursion rates during the stay of the fleet, and thousands of visitors are expected from interior points.

From San Francisco the fleet will go to Seattle, Tacoma and other Puget Sound ports, where its entertainment will be continued.

MARRIED IN PUBLIC.

PANAMA, April 12.—Miss Gladys Squires, daughter of the American Minister to Panama, Herbert G. Squires, and Lieut. H. K. Rosseau, member of the Panama Canal Commission, who were secretly married here last Saturday, were married in public yesterday in the Ancon Chapel, according to the rites of the Catholic church. Col. Goethals, Gov. Blackburn and many other prominent personages were present.

Will Have Route Across Continent.

BIRMINGHAM, (Ala.) April 12.—The official announcement by the Illinois Central that the new Birmingham division will be opened for traffic April 19, calls attention to the completion of the last link in the great Harriman transcontinental route, for by controlling the Union Pacific, Illinois Central and Central of Georgia, this system will extend from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

POLITICIANS WILL BE BUSY.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—With several State and Senatorial conventions, and a large number of district meetings for the choice of delegates scheduled, politics will once more have a prominent place in the news of the week. Democrats will meet in State convention at New York and at Dover, Del., on Tuesday; the Minnesota Republicans will meet at Minneapolis on Thursday, and Republicans will hold Territorial conventions at Honolulu on Monday and Tuesday.

FLAME SWEPT.

vaults. The contents of only one banks' vaults were removed before the building was destroyed.

Tonight the State, city authorities and officials of Boston and neighboring cities made arrangements for relief work. Charitable institutions threw open their doors to refugees and thousands found food and lodgings in schoolhouses, armories and other public buildings in Boston. Churches, halls and schools in the unburned sections of Chelsea also were thrown open.

Lieut.-Gov. Draper sent representatives of the State Board of Charities to the scene, while the Salvation Army, the Associated Charities and other similar organizations made arrangements to care for the homeless.

Tonight the High School building is filled with hundreds of families who are left absolutely destitute. Many of the injured are being cared for at the United States Marine Hospital which escaped the flames.

GALE SWEEPS FLAMES.

The fire originated in the rear of the Boston Blacking Company's works on West Third street, near the eastern division of the Boston and Maine Railroad, in close proximity to the Everett city line. A terrific gale from the northwest which at times had a velocity of sixty miles an hour, carried burning shingles, embers and myriads of sparks to a score of wooden buildings, most of them of cheap construction.

The fire started almost from the extreme southwest section of the city and cut a path to the end of Maverick street at the extreme southeastern end of the city, which borders Chelsea Creek. This is about one and a half miles from where the fire began.

The flames spread through the heart of the retail business section, which was about midway between the two extreme limits reached by the fire.

Among the structures destroyed were thirteen churches, two hospitals, the public library, City Hall, five schoolhouses, twenty business blocks, nearly a score of factories, and upwards of 300 tenements and dwellinghouses.

Among the places burned were:

Frost Hospital.
Children's Hospital.
Fits public library.
Chestnut-street First Baptist Church.
Central-avenue Christian Church.
Stanislaus Catholic Church.
Central-avenue Central Unitarian Church.
Hawthorne-street St. Luke's Catholic Church (old building.)
Hawthorne-street First Methodist Church.
Elm-street Synagogue.
Walnut-street Synagogue.
Chelsea Presbyterian Church.
People's Afro-Methodist Episcopal Church.
Fourth-street Universalist Church.
Second Adventist Church.
New England Telephone and Telegraph central office.
Austin and Young's cracker factory.
Chaplain & Soden Car Company's shops.
Rosenfelt Bros. three-story rag picking factory.
The Tide Oil Company's three immense tanks, Margin street.
St. Rose's Roman Catholic Church, Broadway; loss $25,000.
St. Rose's Roman Catholic School; loss $40,000.
State Armory; loss $100,000.
Sacred Heart Convent; loss $40,000.
Y.M.C.A. building; loss $75,000.
Boston Elevated Railroad station and barn; loss $50,000.
County Savings Bank.
Chelsea Savings Bank.
Chelsea Trust Company.
The Providence Cooperative Bank.

The funds of all these banks, with the exception of the County Savings Bank, are still in the vault. The money and securities of the County Bank were taken to Boston before the fire reached the building.

MILITIA CALLED.

The streets over which the fire reached included Carter, Maple, Spruce, Arlington, Ash, Walnut, Poplar, Chestnut and Cherry to Broadway. From Broadway the fire spread to Bellingham Hill. From Sumner street the fire cut another path, running diagonally across Third street, Everett avenue and Fourth street, to Bellingham street. The flames reached Broadway, the principal street of the city, at a point between Third and Fourth streets, and destroyed the Masonic Hall, Odd Fellows Hall and Bennett block.

The flying embers and the showers of sparks were carried across Chelsea Creek to the East Boston district, and the East Boston engines were obliged to return from Chelsea to protect property in their own district.

A militia call by Mayor Beck, of Chelsea, brought out the First Company, Coast Artillery, Capt. Renfrew commanding, in order to guard property moved into the streets from buildings in the path of the flames.

Col. Wood, commanding the Marines at the Charlestown navy yard, volunteered the services of the 165th company stationed at the navy yard, and on request of Mayor Beck, the company was sent to the fire under command of Captain Hill.

Rear-Admiral Swift, of the navy yard, also sent out all the men from the receiving ship Wabash who were not already off on leave. These sailors were not sent under command of an officer, but were instructed to give their services wherever needed.

Marines with fixed bayonets, held back the crowds while the militia and sailors helped families remove their goods. Advance squads of the military and police were sent ahead warning families living in the path of the fire, which leaped block after block with astonishing rapidity.

TOUGHS OVERAWED.

The crowds generally were easily handled. Occasionally some excited man would burst through the cordon of militia and marines to dash into a house for some forgotten valuables, but the presence of so many uniformed guards overawed the rougher element.

A high wind from the northwest drove the flames directly upon the wooden building of the Boston Blacking Company. The buildings were soon a mass of flames, and as the surrounding properly consisted largely of wooden buildings used for the storage of rags, the fire department realized that a serious fire was threatened, and a general alarm was sounded.

In the gale, shingles, burning paper, oil-soaked rags were flung high into the air and went soaring over the city.

Within half an hour the Rosenfelt Bros.' three-story wooden rag factory on Maple street, was in flames, as was the Chaplin & Soden Car Works. Tons of tarred paper were stored in the latter factory and clouds of smoke rendered the firemen's work extremely difficult.

Soon a dozen factories and cheap tenements west of Everett avenue were in flames and the firemen say they were utterly unable to cope with the conflagration.

AID IS SUMMONED.

Realizing that the city was apparently doomed if the flames could not be stopped at Everett avenue, Fire Chief H. A. Spencer, summoned help from Boston, and all the surrounding cities and towns. Four alarms were rung in on the Boston circuit, and all the available apparatus was sent across the harbor.

Early in the afternoon aid had arrived from Lynn, Haverhill, Wakefield, Salem, Malden, Cambridge, Winthrop and Revere.

The first evidence of the fire on the east side of Everett avenue was when the roof of the Peoples' Methodist Episcopal Church on Fourth street, was seen to be ablaze. The services were in progress at the time, and the congregation was unaware that a serious fire was raging outside. Some one notified the pastor. He immediately turned to his people, told them of the danger, and advised them to file slowly from the building. Twenty minutes later there was not a vestige of the edifice left.

Heaps of burning embers and a suffocating cloud of dust buried down across Everett avenue by the gale, coupled with the intense heat, drove the firemen from their posts and those families nearest the start of the conflagration had only time to rush from their houses and save their lives, losing all of their personal possessions.

Far down Everett avenue the firemen battled with the flames, in an endeavor to save a part of the business section and to confine the fire to that part of the city between the railroad tracks and Everett avenue. Within an area of half of a square were several churches and schools. One by one, they fell before the flames.

CHURCHES IN RUINS.

When the Polish Catholic Church caught fire the pastor had just closed services and many people were in and about the edifice. In fifteen minutes the entire top of the church was in flames. All of the movable effects of furniture were removed. The loss on the Polish church is estimated at $75,000.

A hundred yards away, at the corner of Chestnut and Fourth streets, the First Universalist Church caught fire and was soon enveloped in flames. The pastor declared that the loss would be fully $80,000.

A spectacular feature of the burning of the Universalist Church was the picture of the flames as they burned completely around the base of the golden cross which tipped the spire. For a few minutes it stood out against the sky, a flaming golden beacon, and then, with a crash, tumbled headlong into the roof, breaking as it struck the roof, one part going into the interior of the edifice, and the other striking the street.

Up to this time the fire had been confined to the west of Everett avenue. That it could be stopped there was beyond all question an impossibility, however, for already embers had started fires all the way from Everett avenue across Broadway, leaping the business street of the city, and creating new sources of danger in the poorer tenement residence portion of the city between Broadway and the water front. Spreading to the northeast from Everett avenue the fire seized upon rows of business blocks, facing Broadway, and enveloped them one after another, creeping slowly but steadily toward Chase Square, the center of the city.

STONE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Fitz public library, a magnificent stone structure, was destroyed, and the flames crept toward the Ford hospital.

By requisitioning the ambulances from surrounding towns and cities, and calling into service all available carriages, the police were able to speedily remove the inmates of the Ford Hospital and the Children's Hospital, outside the city limits, to retreats of safety. It was none too soon, for both hospitals were shortly consumed.

The fire at the Fitz library marked the limit of the burned area on Broadway to the east.

On Broadway, the Masonic Temple and Odd Fellows' building were burned, as were twelve blocks, mostly of brick construction. The fire swept down Broadway west to within a block of Chelsea Square, where it seemed to be held in check late in the afternoon.

In the meantime between Broadway and the water front the southern section of the city was in flames. No one knew where the fire would spring up next.

All of the firemen were in the center of the city and a half mile square of the residential section was in flames and no protection available or possible. All the money men possessed was offered to teamsters to cart away household goods, but there were few teams to be had.

The greatest damage was done when the fire reached City Hall Square, at the junction of Park and Washington streets.

Within a half hour in this one square, four churches and the City Hall were leveled to the ground.

DRIVEN STEADILY ON.

Down Maverick, Congress and Essex streets the fire swept by leaps and bounds. A four-story brick building at the corner of Congress and Shurtleff streets was seemingly far removed from danger and had been sought by many families as temporary storage for their effects. Suddenly came the cry that the block was afire. Again men, women and children, but a few moments before congratulating themselves on their distance from danger, were hurrying into the streets with all they possessed. Half an hour later the block was flat.

It was the same story throughout the whole southeast side. Down the water front the flames swept. Factories along Maverick and Marginal streets were enveloped in flames. Behind the banks of flames families were cut off for a time from help and escape.

East of Shawmut avenue, on Maverick and Congress streets, were scores of families burned out and homeless who were helpless to convey their possessions to a place of safety. Steadily they were forced back by the flames, which were being hurled down upon them by the gale, until it became necessary in order to save their lives, to retreat around the wharf frontage toward Revere.

Suddenly there was a terrific explosion and the oil tanks of the Tidewater Oil Company, on the water front, burst into flames. Thousands of gallons of oil were soon burning, and gigantic clouds of black smoke curled and rose into the sky, making it as night all over the east end. The smoke was seen as far as Portsmouth, N. H.

GREAT RAG SHOPS.

Chelsea has a population of 40,000. The section which was burned is mostly inhabited by Jews, who have built in the western part of the city probably the largest rag shop district in the world. Most of the buildings from West Third street, where the fire began, to the water front, are of wood. In this district there have been numerous destructive fires during the last few years.

Chelsea, according to the last census, had nearly four hundred manufacturing establishments, and until the rag-shop industry attained its present growth, the city had some of the finest residences surrounding Boston. With the building up of the rag industry, many of the oldest families moved from Chelsea, and their fine homes were converted into tenements.

Chelsea has been one of the fighting grounds of the liquor and anti-liquor forces for many years, and this year the liquor people won. Many elaborately fitted-up cafés and bar-rooms, which were to have been opened May 1, were burned. More than two-thirds of the property in Chelsea is owned by Jews.

MAKE INTERCITY TOUR.

Fernando Nelson, Donor of the San Francisco-Los Angeles Record Cup, Makes Two-Day Run.

Fernando Nelson and family, in a White steamer, with A. H. Piepenberg, reached this city at 10 o'clock last night, having driven from San Francisco over the coast road. The party made the trip in two days, stopping for rests along the way. The journey was enjoyable, and the roads were found to be in fair condition.

The party will remain in this city until after the arrival of the fleet, and will then tour back to the Bay City. Mr. Nelson is an enthusiastic autoist. He was the first man to make an automobile record from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

Mr. Nelson presented the cup which is now held by the Columbia for the record between the two cities. He is anxious to lower the mark of a little more than 18 hours made by the Columbia. Nelson intends to send his big car on the intercity run in the near future.

Should the record-breaking attempt be made, Piepenberg will drive the machine. He has had much experience in road work, and has annexed several records.

MURDERS HIS COUSIN.

Chinaman Deliberately Shot by Relative Indignant at Being Stigmatized as Dishonest.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, April 12.—Because Lee Chee, a Chinese merchant, had written a letter to the headquarters of the Lee family in San Francisco, saying that he was dishonest, Lee Gan Coon, a shop-keeper, deliberately shot Chee twice today, and then ran to the police station where he was disarmed.

He did not hesitate to admit that he killed Chee, and declared that he went to No. 404 I street for the purpose of committing the murder.

The trouble started over a boarding-house which Coon wanted to purchase, and to which Chee objected unless the cash was paid. It was a family fight, and those mixed up in it are cousins.

There is little sympathy in Chinatown for the murderer, but he has friends who rushed to his assistance and provided an attorney to look after his case in the courts.

GIRL'S ASSAILANT IN TOILS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

MODESTO (Cal.) April 12.—Wave Jones, the 11-year-old girl enticed from home Saturday night and assaulted, today identified E. C. McCarty, a young married man, as her assailant. McCarty was arrested. He refused to make a statement. He came here two weeks ago with his wife.

WOMAN SERIOUSLY HURT.

Falls from Car on Main Street and Her Scalp Is Severely Lacerated.

Mrs. M. Erdman, keeper of the Erdman rooming house at Twelfth and Main streets, was seriously injured by a fall from a car just after midnight this morning.

She was about to get off Main-street car No. 426, when the car started suddenly and the lurch threw her to the pavement. Her scalp was severely lacerated. She was removed to her place near by, where at an early hour this morning two physicians were working with her. As she is elderly and portly her condition is regarded as critical.

Jeff Discouraged.

The latest news given out from the Jeffries club yesterday was that there would probably be no fight in the new club during fleet week. Jeff tried to sign Mike Sullivan and Gardner Saturday, but there was nothing doing. Gardner wanted the weight 142 pounds and Sullivan held out for 145 and as neither would give in, this can be considered as off. Baron Long of the new club expects to return from San Francisco this evening and he may have a card in sight, but it would not be a very good one, as men of any class would want more than a week in which to train.

CLOSE CALL.

DEATH NEAR TO AUTOISTS.

Train Wrecks Big Machine on Dangerous Crossing.

Wife of Charles E. Anthony Seriously Injured.

Her Life Is Saved by Prompt Act of Husband.

Mrs. Charles E. Anthony of No. 2300 Wilshire boulevard was seriously injured in an automobile wreck early last evening at the railroad crossing near the Ostrich Farm in South Pasadena. An eastbound Santa Fé passenger train struck the Pope-Toledo limousine in which Mr. and Mrs. Anthony and a chauffeur were riding and smashed the big car into bits. Mr. Anthony escaped with bruises.

That Mrs. Anthony was not killed outright is due to the presence of mind of her husband, who, when the passenger train was almost upon them, opened the door of the limousine and dragged his wife from the path of the oncoming train.

Prone across the rails Mrs. Anthony fell as she was hauled from the car, only to be lifted to the side of the track in the nick of time as the big motor was hurled, a mass of wreckage, to the side of the road. Mrs. Anthony sustained a gash on the left temple, and severe bruises, where pieces of the demolished car struck her.

Mr. Anthony, who is manager of the Western Motor Car Company, was coming from Riverside with Mrs. Anthony. The car had reached what is known as Deadman's turn and the chauffeur stopped, as it is impossible to see in either direction along the railroad tracks.

On hearing no warning bell the car was sent ahead, but just as the big machine reached the center of the track the headlight of the locomotive burst suddenly into view as the train swung around a curve. Then Anthony acted, and his promptness saved his wife from death beneath the wheels. The chauffeur, named Montgomery, was thrown from the vehicle and bruised.

The train was stopped immediately and the injured were taken to Pasadena for treatment. Dr. F. P. Rowland of that city dressed their wounds and they then were brought back to this city, where Dr. J. W. Trueworthy was summoned. The condition of Mrs. Anthony is serious.

The crossing on which the accident occurred has already claimed two victims. Scarcely more than a year ago an automobile was crushed by a train and two persons met their death.

According to Mr. Anthony, no warning bell was rung last night as his machine approached the crossing. The oncoming train did not whistle, or, at least, the members of the party in the auto say they did not hear the whistle.

EMBERS.

SIX FIREMEN ARE OVERCOME.

Suffocating Smoke Chokes and Blinds Them.

Water Difficulty at Warehouse Blaze.

Damage Placed at Hundred Thousand Dollars.

Bare brick walls, smoke-stained and sooty, twisted steel girders and charred timbers are all that remain of the northern section of the Parmelee-Dohrmann Company's warehouse at Santa Fé avenue and Second street, which was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. The valuable stock of china and glassware is a total loss and the monetary damage will probably aggregate close to $100,000.

It is supposed that crossed electric wires caused the conflagration, as the flames evidently started near the electric elevator. They had gained considerable headway before being discovered and their origin will never be known positively.

The fire department was greatly handicapped by the lack of hydrants in the neighborhood and it was only by the greatest exertion that the flames were prevented from spreading to the neighboring buildings. A constant stream of water was poured on the building of the Carl Enos Nash Company, which adjoins on the west.

The warehouse was used largely as a storehouse for staple goods, most of the more valuable stock being kept at the retail store. Nevertheless there were several consignments of fine ware seriously damaged if not actually destroyed.

No effort was made yesterday to take account of stock, but today the officers of the company will go over the ruins carefully and check up. Heavy insurance was carried on the building and contents and the owners will probably escape with comparatively small loss.

STRAW SUPPLIES FUEL.

The blaze was discovered by Special Officer McDonald of the Santa Fé Company shortly after 2 o'clock. He turned in an alarm from the box in the railroad station. When the fire department arrived the interior of the warehouse was a mass of flames. Three streams of water were soon playing on the blaze.

The great quantities of excelsior and straw, used in packing dishes and glassware, supplied the flames with tinderlike fuel.

The smoke which issued from the building was suffocating and repeatedly drove the firemen from their stations. The men stuck to the task with dogged determination, however, and as fast as one was forced to leave, choked and blinded, another took his place.

By 3 o'clock the flames seemed to be under control, but a few minutes later a burst of light told the fighters that the fire had broken through the roof. Then came a battle royal, which required hard work to prevent a holocaust.

A second alarm was turned in and a few minutes later a third. Every engine in the business part of town was called into service.

The scarcity of hydrants threatened to nullify the efforts of the firemen, for a time it was impossible to get satisfactory streams onto the flames. A hose line was laid from Third street, but when the engine started pumping, the pressure was not sufficient to be of much use.

A call was sent for more hose wagons and water was brought from distant taps. For over an hour one 900-foot length of hose and two 800-foot lengths were in use.

The water tower responded to the last call but was of no help because, in order to get a sufficient water supply, it would have been necessary to use 1800 feet of hose.

WIRES ADD TO TROUBLE.

The network of electric wires surrounding the warehouse added to the trouble of the firemen. A pair of high voltage wires were strung over the roof and when the pole which supported them burned through, they fell onto the others. This put the alarm box out of commission and Assistant Chief O'Donnell was forced to use the telephone to summon aid.

As the wind veered around the Nash building was threatened and an electric light pole in the alley sprang into flames. Water was turned on it, however, and danger from that source removed. Several times the roof of the Nash building began to smoke but on each occasion a thorough wetting saved the structure.

The goods in the warehouse were packed in tiers. These were divided into compartments and each time the walls separating them burned through the flames broke out with renewed vigor. Several efforts were made to fight the flames from the roof, but each time the firemen were driven away by smoke.

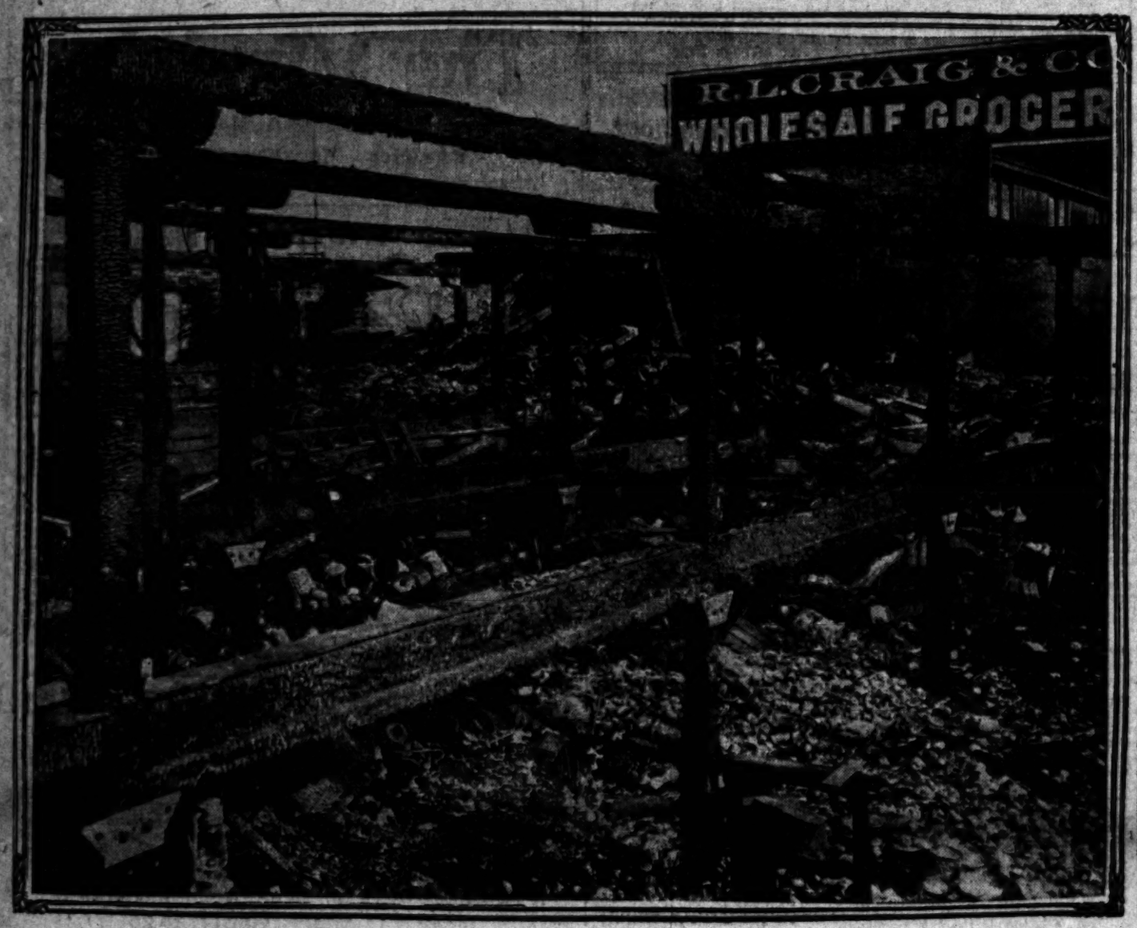
The employés of the company left the warehouse at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon and, as far as is known, no one was in the building between the time of their departure and the breaking out of the fire. Nobody knows how long the flames had been smoldering, as there was practically no draft in the compartments.

MORE HYDRANTS NEEDED.

Assistant Chief O'Donnell last night complained of the lack of fire hydrants in the neighborhood of the Santa Fé station. The proximity of the freight yard, warehouses and other storage places makes the menace from fire unusually serious.

"There are far from enough hydrants in that neighborhood," said the assistant chief. "It is impossible to get the best results from an engine when the stream is sent through a long length of hose. Furthermore it is hard on the hose and causes delay in getting into action. A fire in a two or three-story building in that neighborhood would be a very serious affair. More fire hydrants should certainly be installed without delay."

One fireman was cut by falling glass and had to be sent to the Receiving Hospital. Six others were overcome by smoke. Yesterday a number of the men were unfit for duty.



Charred Remains of Big China Warehouse Destroyed Yester day Morning.

Six firemen were overcome in fighting the blaze and probably one hundred thousand dollars' worth of valuable goods were ruined, an inadequate number of hydrants in the vicinity making it impossible to get sufficient water on the fire at the outset to save the building and its contents.

FEAST CHINA SAFE.

Feared That They Might Have Been Lost in Warehouse Fire; Found Unharmed.

The management of the Alexandria Hotel consider it fortunate that the rare and beautiful dishes which are to be used at the fleet banquet at the hotel were not damaged in the fire that partially destroyed the Parmelee-Dohrmann warehouse early yesterday morning at Second street and Santa Fé avenue.

As soon as he learned of the fire, Joseph Reichl, assistant manager of the hotel and in personal charge of the banquet, visited the scene of the blaze and went through the portion of the building where the wishes were stored. To his delight he found that none of the dishes had been damaged, although about 2000 hollow-stemmed champagne glasses were broken.

"A few days ago, I had the managers of the Parmelee-Dohrmann Company to segregate our dishes and service in order that none of them might be sold by mistake," said Herr Reichl last night. "They were placed in that portion of the building that was the least damaged. I was very much relieved to find the service unharmed. I have ordered special champagne glasses from San Francisco to take the place of those destroyed. The loss of the dishes would have been a hard blow. There are 2,000 in all and it would have been impossible to replace them by others of equal beauty and rarity of design."

The dishes will be removed to the hotel this week and placed in the storeroom in readiness for the banquet, which it is said will eclipse anything ever given before on the Pacific Coast. The managers of the Alexandria will spend several thousand dollars out of their own pockets in order to make the dinner to Admiral Evans and his officers an assured success.

COASTER HURT.

While riding a bicycle down a steep hill near the County Hospital yesterday afternoon, Laurence Cunningham, 11 years old, a negro, whose home is at No. 795 East Twelfth street, sustained a fracture of the right leg. The lad tried to coast down the steepest part of the grade and lost control of his machine, which struck a telegraph pole, throwing the lad from his wheel with great force. The fracture was reduced at the County Hospital.

MARKS NOTABLE ANNIVERSARY.

FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH CELEBRATES.

Congregation Formed Twenty-five Years Ago—Only Charter Member Is Presented With Congratulatory Token—Quarter-Century of Advancement and Liberal Giving.

Today marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the congregation of the First United Presbyterian Church, and yesterday morning Rev. Dr. W. W. Logan preached a sermon appropriate to the celebration. The church was the first organization of the denomination in Southern California with the exception of one at Santa Ana, which antedated it a year or two. Miss Annie Boone is the only charter member now connected with the First Church, and the congregation yesterday presented her with a congratulatory token in the shape of a life membership in the Ladies' Missionary Society of the church.

The first church edifice occupied by the congregation formed April 13, 1885, was on Wilmington street, but later services were held in the old Y.M.C.A. building, then in the business center of the city, at No. 17 North Main street. In 1884 a lot at the corner of Eighth and Hill streets, was purchased for $2700. This was sold about two years ago for $105,000. At the time of its purchase many people criticised the church officers for putting the building so far out in the mustard fields. In 1906 the present fine edifice at Ninth and Figueroa streets was erected, costing, with the furnishings, about $85,000.

There have been five ministers in the twenty-five years of the congregation's history. The pastorate of Dr. Logan has continued since 1895. The church has been the parent of four other organizations. The Second Church, at Washington and Santee streets, was formed by members of the First Church, in 1893, the Harvard Heights Church in 1905, and the Highland Park Church in 1907. The establishment of the First United Presbyterian Church at Long Beach was also largely due to members of the First Church of Los Angeles.

The congregation has been most liberal in contributions. The average per member during the twenty-five years has been $20 per annum and one year it ran as high as $48. During the last year the collections for mission work alone were $2255.

The church enters upon the new era of its life with one of the best equipments in the city. Its new building is thoroughly modern in all the conveniences for church work. During the present pastorate more than 500 members have been received and, notwithstanding the loss by the formation of three other churches in the city, there is a strong and active membership in the parent organization.

RAISES REQUIRED SUM.

Fleet Committee Secures Thirty Thousand Dollars to Defray Celebration Expenses.

The Fleet Committee has raised the $30,000 to cover the expenses of the great "something different" celebration which will start a week from today. W. D. Woolwine, chairman of the Finance Subcommittee, in announcing the fact yesterday, said:

"We have succeeded in getting together the funds necessary for the entertainment of the enlisted men of Admiral Evans's fleet. The people of Los Angeles can always be depended upon to do the right thing whenever the necessity arises."

The money secured goes toward giving the bluejackets a "good time;" the expenses of the banquet and ball will be supplied by those who take part in these functions, and will not come out of the general fund supplied by the citizens.

TRAIN HITS BIG CHAIN.

Windows Smashed in Cars on Southern Pacific and Passengers Startled by Odd Accident.

"Side-wiped" by a heavy chain that hung from a coal shute or water crane, just before it arrived in Los Angeles, the El Paso train that reached here over the Southern Pacific Saturday morning had a narrow escape from serious disaster. Nearly all the windows were smashed on one side of the cars in the train and many passengers barely missed injury from flying glass. Four windows in one Pullman car, all the windows in one side of the diner, and the glass on the same side of the day coaches broken, and glaziers were busy yesterday in repairing the damage.

As the train ran against the chain there was a terrific rasping noise, followed by the crash of glass, and for a few seconds there was intense commotion among the passengers. The train was brough quickly to a stop, but proceeded again when it was found the damage was only slight.

BACK TO CHINA.

Nineteen Chinamen ordered deported to their native land, left here last night over the Southern Pacific for San Francisco. Most of the Celestials were from San Diego, where a number of them have been awaiting the result of appeals from the United States Commissioner's hearing. Five or six prisoners were furnished by United States Marshal Leo Youngworth, who has the custody of the Chinamen arrested by the local immigration officers. A special car was provided for the men, who were closely guarded by Deputy United States Marshal Harry Place and several assistants. Nearly all of the Chinamen made a determined legal fight before submitting to the order of deportation.

WANT BAN ON BOOZE.

Prohibitionists Will Ask Mayor to Prohibit Sale of Intoxicating Liquor During Fleet Week.

Close all saloons and wholesale liquor houses and prohibit the sale of intoxicants in cafés during fleet week, will be the request to the Mayor and City Council by the Los Angeles Prohibition Union.

At a meeting yesterday in Symphony Hall, presided over by Fred F. Wheeler and addressed by him and several other speakers, a resolution to this effect was passed and will be presented to the Council. The prohibitionists consider that the saloons and cafés will be a constant temptation to the bluejackets and as Admiral Thomas has asked that the sailors be not furnished with intoxicants they consider the traffic should be stopped altogether while the warships are in the ports of Los Angeles.

A San Francisco Print Shop Opportunity

A most complete plant—everything new—equipped about a year ago at an outlay of $24,000.00; consisting of Miehle Cylinders, Colt's Armory, Universal, Golding Jobbers, Bronzing Machine, Cutters, Numbering Machines, Stitchers, Perforator, Punches and Dies. All machines have individual motor power.

New type in the best stands and cases obtainable—complete racks of furniture and 5 perfect imposing stones, complete stock department, composing, press, bindery and office rooms all on one spacious ground floor. This shop has paid $1200 net profits a month; the owner ceased operating this plant, now devoting his time professionally.

Everything in the plant is new and will be sold outright or to a man or men with printing sense an arrangement can be made for operating, which will assure a profitable investment. Business conditions in San Francisco are now better than they have ever been in the history of the city.

BOHEMIAN RE SMASHES

Downtown Grill S Carousal by Wor "Waiters' Bar" H Thirsty After Saloo

The Bohemian Grill at No. 317 West Second street was the scene last night of revelry among gay women and blithe men. The dingy grill is fitted with private boxes, where many men gather nightly. Maudlin shouts and the din of an orchestra can be heard a block away in the early hours of the morning, yet it has been operated several months without molestation of the police. It is expected that the Police Commission at its meeting today will start an inquiry.

All the other beer halls close at 1 o'clock in the morning, the habitues of the Bohemian to finish the early morning automobile parties. Outside the place and the curb from Broadway to Hill street is lined every morning. A policeman is there on his beat every night. He often drops in and sometimes eats there. The police are aware of the fact that the city ordinances and laws are not caused the department much trouble.

ASSERTED BY POLITICIAN?

Harry Milling is proprietor of the place. It is said he is backed by an influential politician. About a week ago a small fight occurred in one of the booths, resulting in a police investigation. Milling was called to the Police Court and told that he would have to keep his place more respectably. He made many promises and said he would get rid of all objectionable characters. Many of the same people were there last night, however, and there was no apparent change in the conduct of the establishment.

The grill is an innocent-looking place in the daytime. In the front part are the tables, where food is served. A hall is run across the room about 20 feet from the entrance. Then there are four sets of boxes running from one side of the room. In the rear of the hall is the "waiters' bar" and beyond this is the kitchen.

BOXES FOR MEN AND WOMEN.

The boxes are reserved for men and women. A narrow aisle is cut through the center of each row of boxes, affording access. Saturday night and yesterday morning every box was filled in the afternoon. The tables in the front of the room were also in use and about midnight stood at the waiters' bar and drank after the saloons closed at 1 o'clock.

It is an easy matter to get a drink in the afternoon when the tables and boxes are empty. A waiter who stands at the door and calls out the box numbers when drinks are ordered takes orders from the boxes and seeks them out. These waiters stand there and drink just the same as at an ordinary bar. Early in the evening, when there are plenty of vacant tables, the waiter usually requests the guests to take seats in these apartments.

In many instances women go to the Bohemian Grill. They secure a box and invite men to buy drinks for them. Then they parade up and down the hall and where the curtains are not drawn they walk in and make themselves acquainted." This is carried on in the early morning hours and the place becomes a "hang out" for certain women.

The orchestra band is engaged every night to keep up the merriment. The management has erected a private box in the above the band stand. Rag-time songs are played and the patrons join in to the singing. Drinks are sent to the box and the guests go to the song and vent to the dancing floor. Things were in a state of uproar Sunday morning. The place is well patronized and its business already outgrown its accommodations.

It was learned this morning, from some mysterious source, the tip was received at the Police Station that an investigation was to be made of the resort. It spread rapidly among the frequenters, and as a result a sudden change in the conduct of the grill, orders being given that the city ordinances governing the city should "blow over." Several officers of the police department were on the floor for the purpose of showing that the situation.

wife with the words, "I'll get her yet." About that time Night-watchman Turbett appeared on the scene, and attempted to make an arrest. The infuriated man resisted and it was only with the help of Marshall Kelley and three others that the arrest was finally made.

As the news spread over the town that Coultas had made an assault upon his beautiful wife, feeling ran high and Sheriff McMartin was wired for and took the prisoner to Ventura County Jail, where he now rests.

Coultas is the son of wealthy parents at Murrayville and came to Oxnard a number of years ago with his wife and two children, Birdie, a son now aged 15 and Violet, a girl now 7 years old.

Mrs. Coultas, who is an attractive woman, made many friends. But the husband was a sport and also began the pace that kills. Women and whisky were his worst failings and they robbed him of his home. Owing to his notorious relations with other women and his absolute failure to provide for his family, his wife secured a divorce recently and made her home with her parents.

Recently Coultas entered the saloon business in the Athlete Saloon of this city, although he had promised to leave the country with the securing of the divorce. He is a crack shot and the only thing that saved the life of his intended victim was undoubtedly the snapping of the gun.

The citizens of Oxnard are up in arms over the attempt made by Coultas and, had the prisoner not been whisked away by Sheriff McCartin, it would have gone hard with him.

COULDN'T STAND CHAFFING.

Rather Than Endure Badinage of His Friends Over Broken Engagement, German Shoots Himself.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CASTLE ROCK, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Driven into a melancholy mood by friends who had chaffed him because he had broken off an engagement to wed a young woman whom he had brought from Germany, Frank Sinkus, a well-to-do German farmer, chose death rather than endure further taunts.

Sinkus was found yesterday afternoon on Salmon Creek, lying across his rifle, with a ghastly bullet wound in his head. He died four hours later.

He was a widower with three grown sons. Several months ago he sent to Heidelberg for a young woman, who at that time was a trained nurse, to come to America, where they were to be married. The young nurse came, the date for the wedding was set, and the guests had assembled, when Sinkus suddenly changed his mind.

The young woman, who was good looking, left for New York last week.

Weapon Snaps Instead of Discharging and Woman Flees to Near-by Restaurant—Man Makes Desperate Resistance Against Officer Who Arrested Him.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

OXNARD, April 12.—Charles Elmer Coultas, a saloon man and sport of Oxnard, is in jail, charged with having attempted to shoot his wife, Mrs. Linnie Coultas, daughter of Hon. E. B. Short of this city, from whom he was recently estranged. He is said to have threatened to commit the deed on numerous occasions.

Coultas laid in wait for his wife at a dark corner, knowing of the hour she could be expected to return home. She was accompanied by her son, Birdie, aged 15, and as she came to the corner, Coultas walked swiftly across the street, and stopped the two, demanding to know where they were going. Both refused to answer and attempted to pass, when Coultas pulled a gun. The boy had been warned by his father during the day that he would blow the mother's brains out, and, hearing the gun snap, the boy started to run.

Coultas drew the gun on the woman but it snapped and did not discharge. She turned and fled to a nearby restaurant where she has been employed since the estrangement from her husband.

The assailant hung around and was taken in hand by friends but was unmanageable. He threw his gun in a hedge but began a hunt for his terrified

YOUNG MAN SURPRISED TRYING TO ENTER HOUSE.

Pursued by Guardian of the Law He Draws Revolver, but It Snaps Without Discharging the Cartridge. Burglar Tools Are Found at His Lodging-house.

F. M. Sherwood, aged 23 years, was surprised early yesterday morning while attempting to enter the residence of C. P. Sprague at No. 805 South Olive street. When Officer Hollowell commanded Sherwood to halt, he fled. Drawing a revolver, Sherwood aimed at Hollowell and snapped the trigger. The cartridge hung fire to which Hollowell owes his life.

Throwing his gun away Sherwood vaulted a fence and started through the block toward Hill street. Hollowell fired three shots at Sherwood but missed him. Sherwood ran into a rooming-house at No. 853 South Hill street, where he was rooming, and was captured. A kit of burglar tools was found in his possession.

George Groves and his wife, Mary Groves, were also arrested in connection with the case. They live at No. 836½ South Olive street. Sherwood admits that he was trying to break into Sprague's house, but says that Groves and his wife had nothing to do with the case.

BOYS CAUGHT AT CRAPS.

A juvenile crap game was raided yesterday afternoon in an old barn on Washington street, near Chutes Park. Albert Forkington, Grover Reed, Lucius Stone, John Lear, David Meine and Glenn Parker were arrested. They were committed to the Detention House and their cases will be heard tomorrow.

AN EVASIVE STATEMENT.

To appreciate fully the "statement submitted for the information of the people" by the Los Angeles Board of Education, the full text of which appeared in The Times of yesterday, one should read in conjunction George Ade's delicious fable of the "Statesman Who Couldn't Make Good." His long suit was glittering generalities. He hated work, and it hurt his eyes to read law, but on a clear day he could be heard a mile.

Replying to the protests of citizens because the school term is to be cut short, and of the teachers because it has defaulted in the payment of their salaries, the board devotes a 500-word encomium to the glorious womanhood in the primary and grammar grades and to a boast of what it would do for them if the calloused Council would only soften up and appropriate a few hundred thousand dollars more to the school fund.

The members of the board, while admitting the main allegation, that the pay of the teachers has been docked two weeks, in violation of contract, assert in their statement that "it will not do to say that a few more dollars were given [by the Council] than ever before. The city was growing, more money was needed and the proportional amount more was not given."

The item of a "few more dollars," thus summarily dismissed, refers to the increased appropriation of $500,000. The current expense fund this year contains $250,000 more than that of any previous year, and another $250,000 was raised by a special tax to help out the building fund.

The average attendance in the public schools for February of this year was less than 5 per cent. greater than that of February two years ago, but the cost of conducting the schools had increased 25 per cent.

The board attempts to make it appear that the school term is not to be cut two weeks this year, a rather remarkable assertion in face of the official statement made a month ago to the teachers that "the school term will be shortened two weeks this year, and the teachers will receive pay for eleven and one-half months in place of twelve months."

Could words be plainer? Is not the board's present wiggling and fibbing a sorry example to our youth? Here are the facts: The regular school term for Los Angeles consists of ten months, or 200 school days. This year the schools will be open but 182 school days; yet the board is of the opinion that this can hardly be called cutting the term short.

The board replies to the direct charges that twenty rooms have been closed and sixteen teachers dismissed by asserting that "no regular teachers have been dismissed," a very weak attempt to mislead by telling half a truth.

Here are a few facts that the board sees fit to ignore: The average attendance for the public schools during March of this year was 2227 pupils more than for February. This means an increase of fifty-five classes and an addition of fifty-five teachers; but in place of adding the extra teachers, what the administration did was to lay sixteen teachers off, and the directors now inform us that the efficiency of the schools was increased and there is no overcrowding.

By its own statement the school administration stands convicted either of bearing false witness or of a misappropriation of public funds in carrying seventy-one needless teachers and a corresponding number of janitors on the pay roll during the month of February and the preceding months, when they were not needed. If the classes could be consolidated in March with the great increase of attendance, what manner of administration was it that separated them earlier in the year when the attendance was so much less?

When finest manila paper is ordered for wrapping parcels in the kindergarten, it is not an adequate defense against the charge of extravagance to aver that it is bought at the current market price for that quality of paper; the extravagance lies in the foolish brain that orders such stationery to do wrapping-paper service. It is the extravagance of one who would build a Queen Anne cottage on a Mary Anne income.

And the greatest surprise of all comes at the last when the board says it is willing to have the administration investigated, but it objects to the selection of the City Auditor as investigator. This comes after the Auditor has been at work for a week.

Plainly the investigation by the Auditor is the sword of Damocles hanging over the school administration. Repeatedly during the last nine months the Auditor has remonstrated to the administration about the extravagances and the irregularities that he has been directed by the Council to investigate officially. Now the people want him to dig into this muddle and to locate the blame for it. Glittering generalities and studied evasions will not satisfy parents and taxpayers.

WHAT THE WELCOME MEANS.

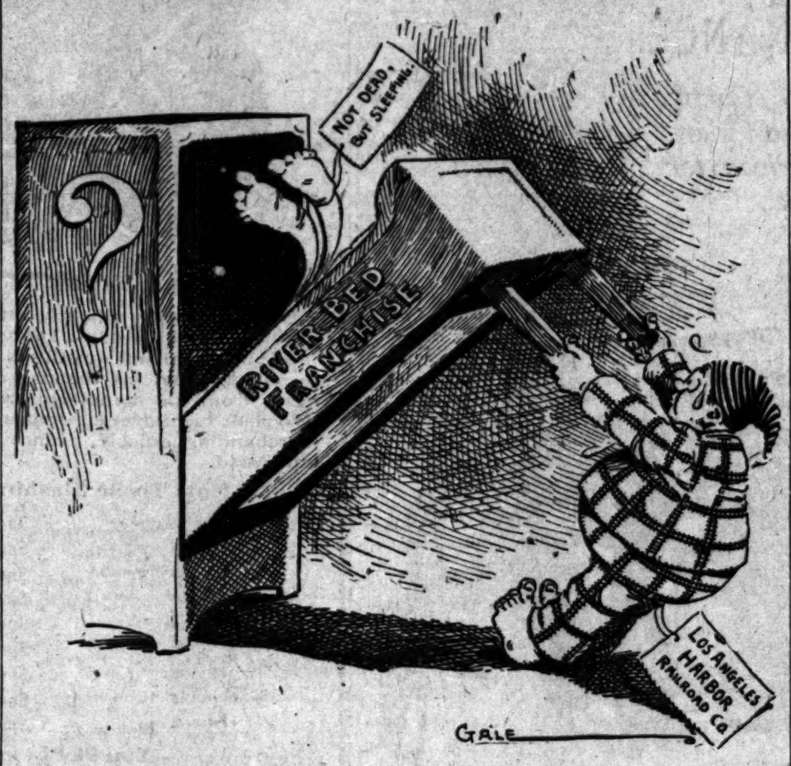
The welcome that the people of the West Coast are preparing for the fleet means vastly more to the world at large than either to us or to the sailors who will rejoice in the hospitality that we are to extend to them. As far as the people of the Coast are concerned it is simply a spontaneous expression of affection for our own kin, who have come from afar to pay us a visit. It is as though old neighbors, or the sons of old neighbors, came in upon us. In our joy at seeing them we spread the feast and set the light of welcome glowing in windows. To the wayfarer who has journeyed over rough seas, it means that he has come among friends again after having been long among strangers who were strangers still, kindly though they were and generous in their greetings.

But on the world at large the welcome of the West Coast to "Fighting Bob's" armada will have a moral effect, the result of which is almost incalculable. The spectacle will be one that will impress Europe and Asia with the vital fact that America fully realizes that she owes a heavy debt to the sailors in her navy—as well a debt to those who stand ready to fight, as those who have already fought in wars of the past. The welcome will mean that we do not regard our soldiers and sailors as mercenaries or hirelings. They are not even conscripts. They are freemen, the flower of the nation, who have of their own volition and initiative entered the military service of their country to fit themselves for the protection of the flag against any possible foe.

Military service in both the armies and navies of most of the nations of Europe is compulsory. For that reason there is not there the enthusiasm that we display for our soldiers and sailors. In Great Britain service is quite the same as compulsory, for the reason that poverty drives men to sail with the warships or to shoulder arms with the army. But it is not so with us. Our soldiers and sailors are volunteers in the truest sense of the word. In both the army and navy the road to advancement is open to all. The shoulder straps are waiting for the man who wins them, whether he be a West Pointer or an Annapolis man, or whether he enlists as a private in the ranks as Miles and Chaffee did.

Nor has it been necessary to urge the people who dwell upon the shores of the Sunset Sea to make the welcome to the fleet all that it should be. Every man, woman and child is eager for the day to dawn when the great armada shall speak our shores. The flags are flung and the cheers are full in the throats of the waiting crowds. Feast and fun and frolic have been planned without regard to trouble or expense. Every door shall be open to the men of the ships. Sweethearts are in every port ready with best bib and tucker to light the welcome with the laughter of their eyes. We are ready at the roar of the first gun to eat, drink and be merry, while the world looks on and wonders.

OPENING IT UP AGAIN!



CITY CONGESTION.

A month ago in the Natural History Museum, New York, an exhibition was opened by Gov. Hughes showing the effect of congestion in that great metropolis. In writing to the London Times, the New York correspondent of the "Thunderer" referred to the conditions as "the shame of America."

The conditions were bad. A small room, without a window, described as "like a Chinese opium den," was labeled "300,000 rooms like this still left occupied in various parts of New York." Tenement blocks were shown in miniature in which were lodged 2781 persons, with only 264 water closets, and not one bath. Blocks were described of 1588 rooms, of which 441 were dark, without ventilation from the outer air; 635 got air from a dark and narrow airshaft. The conditions were described as bad "as anything to be found in the East of London." One spectator is quoted as saying in astonishment, "And this is one feature of the life in that America to which the poor and oppressed and persecuted of all nations have been looking as a haven of liberty and rest and unlimited possibilities."

This shows the danger of taking a biased view of any subject. The exhibition was shameful and deplorable, but difficult in the extreme to deal with. The correspondent suggests this in reporting no less than fifty societies working hard to ameliorate the wretchedness of this congested population. To get at a proper view of this matter we must take other facts into consideration. These New York conditions are not nearly so bad as in parts of Paris, nor as in Naples, nor as in many places in Europe from which this congested population comes. During one year 200,000 foreigners have come into New York and remained there. They have no money to get farther than this dumping ground. They cannot speak a word of our language. They have friends in New York and remain there until able to get farther into the country, and having learned a little English obtain employment. They huddle together as many as 1000 to the acre. They must do it or sleep in the streets, as they have not means to procure better lodgings.

In eighty years 21,000,000 persons have come from other lands, to seek an asylum among us. They do find here "a haven of liberty." If they look to this country or any other excepting the "bourne from which no traveler returns" as "a haven of rest" they are foolish. Great numbers find "unlimited possibilities." John R. Walsh, the Chicago banker, was one of those who came here and found his possibilities. They were great. Andrew Carnegie was another. The country is full of men of great wealth who came here beggars, and made for a time part of this congested population in our great cities. The achievements of these poor immigrants are the glory, not the shame, of America.

All praise to the members of these fifty associations in New York who are trying to improve standards of living among these ignorant foreign refugees who come here to find a "haven of liberty" and "unlimited possibilities." But it is a crude attempt at thinking which marks the socialist and the anarchist to put these conditions on America as a shame to the country. Americans are not to blame for the conditions in Europe which drive these people here to better their conditions. We are not responsible for their not speaking English, for being densely ignorant, for lacking energy and initiative, for not knowing how to perform work in factories or to do farm work after the fashion of our country. We can hardly be expected to go back to their way of farming in order to make things easier for them. They do struggle along, slowly learn our tongue, earn a few dollars, get used to our ways, and then millions of them become well to do, thanks to the opportunities they find here.

There is a worse side to all this than the material filth and physical discomfort. These congested blocks breed vice as the sun breeds corruption in carrion. There is where anarchy is a natural growth, just as foul creatures multiply in the darkness and filth of these airless rooms. America has been too long-suffering with these reproductions of the slums of European cities, where the dregs of humanity are driven into the streets to subsist as best they may.

This immigration gave us Pat McCarren, Thomas F. Grady, P. M. McCarthy, Mike Casey and even in the second generation Debs and La Follette, as well as Abraham Hewitt and Phil Sheridan. But American ideals are too deeply rooted here, and American institutions too just to suffer more than temporary inconvenience at most.

The wife of a famous man always stands a chance to get her picture in the papers, but the husband of a famous woman occupies the same position as the bottom of a hole, the top of which is completely obliterated.

WANTED—A STATESMAN.

A number of more or less distinguished people discussed business and legislation at Philadelphia Friday last. Isadore Strauss, a New York business man, treated the recent financial panic in a way so full of obscuration that it would make the miraculous darkness of old Egypt brilliant by comparison. Judge Peter S. Grosscup of Chicago spoke on corporation management by government interference in a way so luminous as to set him high up among the real thinkers of the country.

These two addresses cause an involuntary sigh for a real statesman to take up the difficult problems of this day of violent transition of view and activity and to guide the country to a safe position.

Mr. Strauss came on the scene like a Carrie Nation in pants, and proceeded to hammer everything in his way. He spoke of our "archaic banking system" and "our defective banking laws." But he had not a word to say which would shed light on the defective points, or show if the whole system were "defective." Still less had he a remedy for the defects he laments. It takes only a child to raise doubts, and to find defects. What the country wants just now is a statesman who can pilot us into safe anchorage where these financial storms shall not reach us. Mr. Strauss is no better pilot than the fantastic Senator La Follette. Congress has been reluctantly trying to pass a law which would remove some of the defects in our banking system. Business men like Strauss, and political mountebanks like La Follette, have blocked every move on the board, and been content to block.

La Follette has been hailed as the country's savior in this blocking game. Senator Teller of Colorado has not been regarded as any too conservative, but he is a man of brains. He knows something about banking. This is what he had to say in the Senate in reply to La Follette's game of stupid obstruction:

"No one in the Senate, except the Senator from Wisconsin, has supposed that the bill under consideration is intended to reform the evils of banking, of which the Senator from Wisconsin complains. It is strange too that the Senator from Wisconsin has ignored the fact that there are ample provisions in existing law for penal punishment for bank derelictions. No one here, unless it is the Senator from Wisconsin, thinks this bill is a reorganization of the banking system."

La Follette retorted that he knew the purpose of the bill. But he was not going to lose his chance to make a three days' speech, after the usual demagogue pattern—an attack upon rich men contatining in every sentence the false, vicious and dangerous imputation that all rich men are dishonest. Of course, the reformers who contend that there is a "universal disregard for law by business men" think La Follette's demagogy was fine.

The Aldrich bill is at least an attempt to provide a legal way to issue emergency currency, and to authorize the loaning of public funds to the banks under proper safeguards. During the panic the Secretary of the Treasury deposited with the banks (loaned the banks) $240,000,000 of the people's money, took no receipts for it, got no interest on it, and had no authority to the extent of a scratch of a pen for doing this.

During the same panic the banks of New York issued shin-plasters to the extent of $100,000,000, the banks in Los Angeles issued $3,500,000 of this scrip. There is no scratch of a pen to authorize this in all the banking laws of State or nation.

The result of the attacks on the bill by politicians like La Follette and of business men like Strauss is likely to leave the banking system as "archaic" in the next panic as in the last. Mr. Strauss may hold stock in a bank or in banks. We need a statesman who will force through some legislation which will reform this "archaic system" and pass laws which will not be so "defective." We have a surplus of reformers of the Carrie Nation type, with handy hatchet to break in pieces all they meet.

Judge Grosscup turned the light on La Follette's chiaroscuro obscurantism even more than Senator Teller. He pointed out that the Wisconsin comedian juggled with words after the clown's way of tossing yellow balls in the air. The corporate wealth of the country is the property of millions, not of a few. Laws are needed to safeguard the rights of those whose honest earnings are invested in corporate wealth. The Hepburn bill does not repeat the unworkable Sherman Act, but lays the corporate wealth of millions of the people an unguarded prey to that impossible law, which would be ten times worse under the socialistic policy of a President like La Follette and a commissioner of corporations like Sam Gompers or W. D. Haywood.

Judge Grosscup calls for a recognition of human nature as a factor to deal with in legislation, and he relies in the end on the common sense of the American people to demand fair laws, equal to all in scope and in administration.

The words with which this sound and eminent jurist closes his address are worth preserving as a guide. They follow:

"For one, a participant in the conference last October that appointed the committee to propose some plan of corporate reform in connection with amendments to the Sherman Act, I [illegible] plan as a deceit—a promise made to be broken to the hope. This pending [illegible] a solution by regulation of the corporate problem, lacks every essential human note. It has no interest in men except as they are [illegible] bread and customers of the corporations. It has no sympathy with men as independent, aspiring human beings. It aggrandizes, beyond measure, the power of the President of the United States, putting in the power of that single officer of government to say what corporations shall live, and what corporations shall be outlawed, but it opens up no [illegible] that will give an interest or stake in the [illegible] incorporated domain to the eighty millions of people upon whose energy that domain depends and upon whose wealth, in the last analysis, it continually rests.

"But we need not despair. (In the wide [illegible] of corporate discussion now going on, there is yet no scientific frontier. But the frontier will eventually be run; and when it is there will be found on the one side the trimphant [illegible] sense of the American people and the sovereign industrial domain will ultimately become a [illegible] sion of the people, by the people, for the people. [illegible] for in that direction, and in that direction only, the road to a settlement that will be lasting."

KERN OIL MEN KEEP UP COMBINE.

The course of the Kern county oil [illegible] in beginning at once to get renewals of all [illegible] to the agency is a wise move. These leases [illegible] December 31, 1908, and, unless renewed, the [illegible] must go out of business, a misfortune that [illegible] affect every independent operator in California. The time is twenty months off, but it is [illegible] ble to begin proceedings too early. It is a [illegible] certainty that efforts to break the combine [illegible] be made by the Associated, and very likely by the Standard. The former has already begun [illegible] control of one leading company in the field, which looks very much like an attempt to [illegible] the independents. If so, nothing has come of it yet. What plans may be on foot no one knows, but it is very unlikely that the Associated will be idle.

It must not be forgotten that while there is [illegible] the least danger of a return to the extreme low price of a few years back, a drop to 40 or 50 cents would be a decided misfortune. With reduced production in Kern River, increased competition from other fields and higher rates to consumer, such a cut might still be forced if [illegible] should go to selling independently. In fact it would be almost certain to come about.

The Standard is pushed to the limit for [illegible] California. The Kern agency controls a [illegible] erable product that is good for refining, and the 14 gravity can be mixed with lighter oils [illegible] in need. It is widely reported that the Standard has sent $5,000,000 to Los Angeles banks [illegible] here. That conditions are such as to [illegible] dence to this story clearly shows the [illegible] events. Under these circumstances the [illegible] may be expected to break any combination [illegible] can.

Easter Suits
For Young Fellows

We have some unusually smart styles in clothes for young fellows of from 14 to 20 years—single and double-breasted two-button suits in soft stripe effects—the very latest shades in browns, greens and the new "elephant" colorings.

These garments are cut quite different from the ordinary—coats have the long, rolling lapels, cuff sleeves, fancy flap pockets, and other smart, individual details of cut and finish. These are just the garments for the "prep" school or college man.

New Ideas in Young Men's Hats, Shoes and Toggery. See our window displays.

The Newest Dress Stuffs
Madame Fashion favors greys this season—so do scores of well-gowned women. For them we've bought, among other things:
Gray and London Smoke; light and dark shades, showing herringbone or narrow stripes; 58 inches wide $2.50
New wools in cream grounds with black, blue, brown and tan stripes of English effect; we searched the markets for these beauties, and had them sent by express to reach you when you most want them; 58 inches wide $3.00
Serges with herringbone stripes in the weave; as stylish next fall as they are now; navy, gulf blue, black, tan and brown; 50 and 54 inches wide $1.50
Cream serges in panamas; shadow checks and stripes in the weave; $1 and higher.
We make skirts in scores of new styles for $2.80, findings extra; made-up models on display at the Wool Goods Section, where you may get all particulars of this liberal offer.

Less-Priced Linens
You will want to see the following fine linens and finished cloths, even if you're not buying:
Bleached table damask, full 72 inches wide, reduced as follows: $1 grade for 85c; $1.25 grade for 95c; $1.50 grade for $1.20; $2 grade for $1.35 a yard.
A small lot of fine bordered table cloths must quickly find new owners. Here are their new prices: 2x2, $2.50, instead of $3; $3.25, instead of $4; $5, instead of $6. Other sizes proportionately cut.

Beautiful Spring Silks
A Number of Them Reduced
New lots of silks are ready for today and this week. We are headquarters for fine and stylish silks, and you will find the silks in best demand frequently at less prices than other stores charge:

Easter Handk'fs
To be really smart, the tailored suit of today should show a color-edged handkerchief at the breast pocket on the right or left side.
French novelties, of course, and very pretty ones, too; several designs to choose from at 20c, 25c, 35c and 50c
Sheerest of pure linen handkerchiefs for Easter carrying—hand-embroidered with poppy or poinsettia sprays; you may buy them, inclosed in a decorated box, with hand-painted sachet to correspond, complete, for $1.00
For the children's Easter gift—a "Bunny Book" of six illustrated handkerchiefs; drawings by B. Cory Gilvert and other well-known artists; six for 25c

The Long Gloves
We are very glad to announce the arrival of a most opportune shipment of kid gloves, with gusseted arms, in twelve and sixteen-button lengths:
Made from selected cape leather, shown in several shades of light to dark tan, including the new very light, almost champagne shades; 16-button length, $4.25 quality for $4.00
12-button length, $3.75 quality $3.50
All sizes, of course; fitted and guaranteed.

Easter Hosiery
A host of charming novelties as well as the staples that you expect to find.
Tans, of course. Every woman will want at least one pair of tan shoes—with appropriate stockings. Coulter prices range from 25c to $3.00.
Really charming silk stockings as low as $1.50. Sumptuously rich ones for Easter brides as high as $7.50.
Embroidered lisle threads for moderate purses. Openwork effects; embroidered ankles and clocks; what a wealth of new ideas, and a color range to match every gown and every purse. Come the minute you've decided upon your Easter gown or suit.

Women's Easter Suits from $20 to $118
Which Will You Have?
A splendid variety in all styles and colors and materials. You'll want to see them, especially the beauties that we can sell for twenty dollars today:
Novelty suitings in stripes and checks; plain or shadow stripe panamas—Butterfly sleeves or plain good-looking tailored models; gracefully full skirts, with neat folds above the hems; some without the folds; light, summery shades and weights. Regularly $22.50 to $27.50. Alterations free.
If you select the beauties at more expensive figures in three-piece, cutaway and Tuxedo or like effects, you may be sure your Easter costume will do you honor Easter morning.

Daintiest Wash Materials at Decisive Savings
These dainty wash goods for your sewing room, to be made into charmingly fresh dresses at very slight cost:
17 1-2c for 25c Suisse Plumetis:
Only one case (fifty pieces) to sell so cheaply; we'd have bought more if we could; plain pongee grounds, with colored dots in blue, pink, black, etc., and a raised embroidered dot of self-shade; stripes with flowers, exact copies of imported organdies and muslins that retail for $1 to $1.75 a yard.
25c for New Irish Dimities:
Prettiest patterns that have yet come across the seas to show you now in these always-favored materials.
12 1-2c for 15c Lonsdale Cambric:
Real Lonsdale cambric, 36 inches wide; staple as flour or sugar at 15c a yard; Monday and Tuesday only, 12½c.

Smart and Charming Easter Waists
Tailored Styles, Too
The Easter suit in all its glory can't appear with a waist less handsome—that's certain. Here are scores of styles, each one a new model:
Lace waists in white and ecru, in charmingly pretty styles, $6.50, $7.50, $9 and $10 each.
Lingerie waists in batiste, lawn and like materials, with elaborations of lace and dainty embroideries, or in plainer styles with groups of fine tuckings, at very modest prices.
Smart tailored waists of linen or madras, $3.50 and $4.50; these with collar and cuffs attached; cross-bar tailored waists, with stiff collar and cuffs, $2.50. Others for more, and less; all good styles.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—There has been a slight rise in pressure along the Coast of California, and conditions are becoming more favorable for showers. Fresh south winds are blowing in the great valley of California, and there is considerable cloudiness in the Sierras. The temperature has fallen over nearly the entire coast except in the San Joaquin Valley, where it continues high.

Forecast:

San Francisco and vicinity: Cloudy Monday, with fog; possibly light showers by night; fresh southwest winds.

Santa Clara Valley: Cloudy Monday, with fog; light north winds.

San Joaquin Valley: Cloudy, cooler Monday; possibly showers in the foothills; fresh southwest winds.

Classified Liners.

Times Classified Rates: The rate for inserting "Want" ads in The Daily Times is 1c per word for each insertion; in the Sunday issue 1½c per word, each insertion; minimum charge 25c; except under following classifications the rate for which is 10c per line, minimum charge 50 cents: "Society Meetings," "Personals," "Financial Notices," and "Baths and Massage."

"Liner" (classified) advertisements for Sunday insertion received over the counter or telephone after 11:30 o'clock Saturday nights will be inserted under heading "Too Late to Classify."

Sunday real estate advertisements, to be classified properly, must be in The Times office before 10:30 o'clock Saturday nights. Rates 1¼ cents per word.

The Sunday circulation of The Times exceeds 77,000 copies, and more "liners" are regularly printed in its columns than in the five other Los Angeles newspapers combined.

Telephone your want advertisements. Ring up "The Times" any time of day or night and secure prompt and careful attention.

The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in telephoned advertisements.

THE TIMES will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time.

Advertisers should retain receipts given by The Times in payment for "Liners," as no mistakes can be rectified without them.

BECOMING ENTHUSIASTIC.

BRITISHERS LEARNING AMERICAN BASEBALL.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

Nelson P. Cook and All-British Team, man who succeeded after thirteen years' effort in introducing baseball into England, and the team which beat an all-American aggregation with but one season's experience.

LONDON, April 2.—Nelson P. Cook, founder and organizing secretary of the British Baseball Association, has spent thirteen years in the effort to introduce baseball in the British Isles. Before Cook appeared in England two attempts to introduce the game in the British Isles, backed by an abundance of money, and in two of the instances supported by the best baseball talent of the United States, had ignominiously failed, yet this Yankee, starting with only three players and no grounds, but with unlimited enthusiasm and dogged perseverance, has built up an organization with two leagues and sixteen rattling good clubs.

When Cook landed in England the first literature he consulted was not a Baedeker but a short history of the two attempts that had been made to graft baseball on to the English catalogue of sports. The first real attempt was made in 1874, when the Bostons and the Philadelphia Athletics toured the country. This effort was a failure, as was the one made fifteen years later by A. G. Spaulding, who brought over two teams, one representing Chicago and the other All-America. As a result of the latter attempt, in the early nineties professional baseball teams were formed at Preston, Stokes, Birmingham and Derby. These clubs were furnished with professional coaches from the United States and were backed by Americans. They lasted just as long as these backers were content to send over a monthly check to make up the ever-increasing deficit.

In the spring of 1893 there appeared on the scene a famous vaudeville star, R. G. Knowles. He went at it seriously and did some good work. But Nelson P. Cook did all the hard work.

Things dragged along until the spring of 1896, when the season opened with four evenly-balanced teams playing a regular league schedule. A few weeks later a junior league was formed with four new teams, and a permanent success was in sight for the organizers. But only one ground was available and that in a very isolated part of London, and the season ended in failure.

In the spring of 1897 the promoters had the greatest difficulty in discovering anyone who was willing to admit that the game had any life in it.

Despite this disappointment, Cook had gathered from his experience in London that the game of baseball, if if given a chance—would work its way into the hearts of the English people. But try as he might it was not until early in 1906 that Cook was able to turn his attention to the interests of baseball.

When he started that year, Cook was able to discover three, and only three, men in the whole of London who could and would play the game. On this small foundation he set to work to build the British Baseball Association.

Football was then as now the great Saturday afternoon game in Great Britain. In the ten years previous to 1906 it had made marvellous strides in popular favor. The lover of baseball who feasts of the big crowds which attend the matches in the important cities of the United States, would be amazed could he see the throngs that view a first-class football match in London or any of the other great centers of the game. Eighty or ninety thousand spectators are considered merely a "good gate," and 110,802 people have paid admission to see a cup-tie match at the Crystal Palace. In metropolitan London alone there are no fewer than eleven professional football organizations, each one a member of one or other of the three big English leagues.

The football season lasts from September 1 to April 30. From the latter date until the following August 31, the big grounds of these organizations lie idle. In this fact Cook saw his opportunity, and secured six of the grounds.

Thus it was that the British Baseball Association was started in April, 1906. Twenty-six men who had played the game of baseball before, and who were willing to play again, were unearthed in London. Most of these men were British-born, having learned to play during visits to America.

With these men the six clubs were formed. The clubs took their names from the football organizations that fathered them, and were the Claptons Orients, Leyton, Fulham, Tottenham Hotspurs and Woolwich Arsenal. In addition to these five an independent club was formed, called the Nondescripts, who used the grounds of the Ilford Football Club, a prominent London amateur organization.

During the same summer of 1906, in addition to the major league, various junior clubs were formed and knocked into playing form, and the season of 1907 opened with sixteen clubs in existence. Cook regards the Englishman as the best raw baseball material in the whole world, and the results he has obtained seem to bear him out.

The feature of the season of 1907 was a game between an All-American team made up of men who had played the game in the United States and an All-British team made up of men, who, with four exceptions, had never seen a baseball game before the season opened. And the All-British team won in a rather close match.

RAILROAD TRAMPS.

FREIGHT CARS' WANDERLUST.

RAILROADS BORROW EACH OTHERS' EQUIPMENT.

Elaborate System Required to Enable Owners to Keep Track of Their Own Cars as They Are Sent Back and Forth Over the Country by Other Roads.

Temporarily Lost—One hundred thousand freight cars, probably mislaid.

Stolen Bodily—A trainload of new cars en route from factory to owner.

These are lost, strayed and stolen items, which might, with perfect propriety, be inserted in any newspaper, for stranger things have happened. Few people know about the wanderlust of freight cars. Once gone, they are hard to entice home. They have the roving habit. But once back in their own yard, they might tell an interesting story of how, loaded with flour at some northern city, they were shanghaied at some southern town and compelled to do duty for strange masters for months at a time.

This is a story of how they are traced, kept track of, and ultimately brought home.

Perhaps passing through some Alabama farm, one sees a Montana Central freight car peacefully receiving into its capacious maw the products of the soil. One inquires where the car is going and is told New Orleans or New York.

How did this car from the far northwest get into Alabama, and now that it is here, why is it not being sent home instead of being reconsigned to New York or New Orleans, by a road which does not own it?

Simply because the railroads have built up a system of "dishonest honesty," as the President says, and have silently accepted a system of car pilfering which necessity created. Everywhere the observant traveler goes he will see cars belonging to one railroad being loaded by another, perhaps hundreds and hundreds of miles from the home of the car.

This is because cars, to speak plainly, are stolen. Until a few weeks ago no American railroad had cars enough of its own. Therefore any car which came to it from other lines, and was unloaded at destination, was immediately seized upon and made to do service.

A strange and wonderful thing used to happen frequently up to a few months ago. The manager of some big car building plant would wire a railroad general manager in a distant State: "Two hundred new cars forwarded today." These cars would be sent through on a regular bill of lading, supposed to be a sacred instrument. The days, however, would go by and none of the new cars would show up, excepting perhaps a caboose or two, which had been overlooked in the scramble.

Where were the others?

Stolen en route. By the time their loss was discovered they might be scattered through a half dozen States and all the "owning" road knew of these cars would be though "junction cards," a system of postal notification by which one railroad acknowledges its thefts to another.

Cars are not "stolen." They are "borrowed." It sounds more polite but it means the same.

Of such vast importance is a railroad's freight equipment (vastly more important in its earning capacity than the passenger equipment) that the railway manager provides an elaborate system for tracing every car belonging to the road. Tracing a car is one thing; getting it back another.

By means of this system of reports and records he can keep track of the same freight cars and know whether or not he is getting out of them the best possible service they are capable of rendering. Idle freight cars mean a loss of money and they are only a source of revenue when they are moving under load.

The department through which the work of watching freight cars is handled is the car record office. This office may be under the direction of a car accountant, superintendent of car service or superintendent of transportation, according to the organization of each individual railroad, but the methods employed are practically standard in all.

Books are usually used in which to record the movements of cars as reported to the car record office by conductors and agents on standard blanks provided for the purpose.

The reports made by the conductors show initials and number of each car handled, when each car was picked up and when left and whether loaded or empty. In addition to this general information, which is absolutely necessary, some railroads require the conductor to report contents of cars as well as destination and condition of seals—the last for the information of the freight claim department, to enable it to locate losses. Separate reports are required for each trip. Instead of using the names of the stations in his reports the conductor uses the numbers of the stations. This number usually represents the distance of the stations in miles from some given point. In the case of cargd railroads, where the station numbers run up into three and four figures, an arbitrary letter is assigned to division terminals, where a large number of cars are handled. This is necessary in order to reduce the work in the car record office, as it takes less work to record one letter than three or four figures. The reports made by agents at junction points where cars are interchanged with connecting railroads, show initials and numbers of all cars delivered to and received from each connecting railroad, together with contents and destination, as well as actual time of delivery. These are called interchange reports and their accuracy is of the utmost importance, as they prove possession of a car which carried with it responsibility for its safe return.

As an evidence of their accuracy these interchange reports are usually signed either by the agents or yard masters of both the delivering and receiving railroads. These reports are made daily and when they reach the car record office are entered on the record so as to show whether or not the car is available for the other's use.

Under present practice, freight cars are interchanged freely between all railroads of the same gauge and as the standard gauge of four feet, eight and a half inches has been generally adopted by all railroads of the United States, Canada and Mexico, this means that freight cars may penetrate all parts of North America regardless of ownership. This makes necessary a system of reports between the various railroads by which each is kept constantly advised of the movement of its freight cars. These reports, made on postal cards, are called "junction reports" and they are also entered in the car records. By means of these junction reports a car owner knows the location of each of his cars at all times and if it is necessary, can call for their return with the certainty of knowing he is calling on the proper person.

It is one thing, however, to ask and another to receive. Before the introduction of these reports the work of calling for the return of cars or tracing, as it is called, was one of much time and labor and in many instances cars should reach the owner before he had actually succeeded in locating them.

Primarily, freight cars are bought or built by each railroad for its own use, but as under present methods, above explained, they are consigned all over the country, promiscuously, it was necessary to devise a basis on which settlements could be made between railroads for the use of each other's cars. Here is where the roads then get even.

Prior to July 1, 1902, such settlements were made on a mileage basis at various rates per mile. The general rate was six mills per mile. That in each railroad using a freight car other than its own, paid to the railroad owning the car six mills per mile, settlements being made monthly. By this plan, owners received rental on their cars only while moving, which was most unsatisfactory to those railroads which had supplied themselves, at enormous expenditures, with sufficient cars to handle their business.

Up to December, 1907, this period was the most prosperous one in the history of the country and freight movements were so large in volume as to tax the railroads to their utmost capacity. The demand for freight cars was beyond the power of the railroads to meet. Under these conditions the per diem charge of 50 cents per car was not a burden to the railroad companies, because cars were actually worth more than this amount.

With changing conditions, however, there came a change in railroad conditions. What was previously a benefit, became a burden. Under the mileage plan for settling for freight car hire, rental was only paid when the cars were moved and in dull times railroads could hold empty cars on side tracks without expense, but under the per diem plan of settlement the car owner gets 50 cents per day rental whether the car moves or stands idle. It is this fact that has so seriously affected the railroads during the last three months by preventing reduction in expenses in proportion to reduction in earnings. Empty cars must be sent home to the owner or the road holding them must pay the owner 50 cents per car per day. To avoid paying 50 cents a car daily, the cars must be sent home empty and it costs money to haul empty cars, while the railroad performing the service nets no revenue for it. Thus, expenses continue high in the face of falling revenues. This situation is agitating the minds of all thoughtful railroad managers and efforts are being sought to relieve it.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

LOCALS GIVEN BAD BEATING.

Oakland Scores Six Runs in the First Inning.

Randolph Both Good and Bad by Fits and Starts.

Pitcher Hardy Allows but Two Scattered Hits.

Oakland, 14. Los Angeles, 1.

Flowers are things a man presents to a girl before he marries her, and when he don't see how it could be possible for any one to ever love any one else. They are also given to young ladies who rush out from High School exercises in cheese cloth dresses to show up other people in the world besides themselves. These are the two classes that the posy presentations don't hurt, because they expect such things, but with a ball player it's different.

When a ballplayer sees a bookay getting ready to be lugged to the plate when he gets there, he immediately tries to stand on his head. He is like the fellow who learns a long speech to make at a banquet and then when he gets up to make it, can't remember even the difference between a cat and a dog, except that one chases the other up a tree.

Whenever a ballplayer sees the bunch of flowers first, he either crosses his legs at the start and stumbles in front of the others or waits until he gets into the lead in the stretch and then "tires palpably at the end," whatever that really means, when everyone has a bet on him.

A bunch of flowers lay in a girl's lap yesterday in the grand stand. Of course, it is not necessary to write much of a novel about what a girl, a young fellow, a bunch of sweet smelling flowers and a flying wisp of brown hair means, but it is a combination that makes ball games possible and works, too, and everything that is in and out of them.

The combination of these dear old familiar things was there and if you don't believe it, look at the score. Why, just think of that aggregation in a pleasant sunshiny afternoon in April in Southern California and then gaze on the score board. You don't have to do that, however, for you could almost guess what the score might be, and if you didn't guess right, it wouldn't make any difference, anyhow, for they can take their old ball scores and go to the deuce with them, can't they, dear?

Well, to make a long story short, it is whispered that Randolph knew that some one in the grand stand was holding a bunch of flowers for him and after he had finished pitching the first inning, it was found that Oakland had made six runs and four hits. Then in the fourth, they made three more runs and four hits before Dillon walked over to Randolph and gently threw him on the bench, substituting Bush Phillips, late of St. Vincent's College. When Randolph came to the bat first in the last of the third inning, a boy rushed out from the grand tsand and thrust a big bunch of red and white carnations into Randolph's hands. It was so sudden. A pretty girl in the grand stand blushed with joy—and then Randolph struck out, as all players do who are given bookays.

Along in the eighth inning, someone yelled to Pat Phillips that he was going to get a bookay soon, and the next thing Phillips knew the Oaks had cracked him for two doubles and a single; he had walked two; there had been a passed ball and a steal and the Oaks had four runs.

OAKS CLIMB ON.

Cutting out the flowers and the girls, and the way they affect some boys, it might be said that the game wasn't so much. Over 4000 fans were there to look at it and it turned out to be a joke, for the Oaks made six runs and four hits in the first inning; four runs and five hits in the fifth and four runs and three hits in the eighth, and if they had needed any more runs or hits they could have made them without straining themselves.

Van Haltren, the mean old thing, went and stuck in a fellow named Hardy to pitch for Oakland, and the shortest description of him that one can think of, is that he is a pitcher. He just pitches. He wouldn't draw either the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh or eighth prize in a beauty show, unless the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth prize winners adjourned to the back yard to knock down and drag out a few winners and decide the scratch-as-scratch-can championship. However, as neither the truly great or very rich are even good looking, Hardy won't care about his looks.

Some of the Los Angeles players are hard batsmen, but he made the whole bunch of them look like a Battle Creek sanatorium cat trying to eat a last years' boarding-house mattress. For six long innings none of the locals made even a scratch hit. Two of them got as far as first base, in different innings, because Hardy passed them after two were out. As Oakland happened to be ten runs ahead at these critical times it would have made no difference if he had passed a dozen. He has drops, out-curves, in-shoots, floaters, dips, teasers, jumpers, necklaces and fifteen other different kinds of heaves that fool batters. Leaving out these fifteen that he didn't use yesterday, he has about a dozen others that he don't use at any time, because he does not need them. In the seventh inning, Dillon hit a long fly that went ovre the left fielder's head, because he was in too close. This was in the nature of a fluke hit, and Dillon got a swat to right in the last of the ninth. These were the only two in the game.

Dillon opened the ninth with his drive and went to second on Brashear's bounce to Altman, who tried to force out Dillon at second, but failed. Dillon stole third base and scored on Smith's out at first.

It is not necessary to give a life's history of all of Oakland's runs, for such a history would be painful to the fans. How the first six came to life should be enough to make any one tame.

This first inning for Oakland was not only noticeable for the number of runs, but from the manner in which the fourth, fifth and six were scored. Those who wonder why the favorites at the Arcadia race track ran first one day and last the next, might also gasp at the news that, with the bases full, three runs can be scored by a man who makes an out at first base. This happened yesterday.

FUNNY BUSINESS.

With Randolph doing his best, Cook opened the inning with a single to left and Val Haltren followed with a drive to center. Heitmuller sent both on with a sacrifice, and Randolph filled the bases with a pass to Eagan. Not satisfied with this, he forced in Cook with a pass to Quick, and then Altman and Scruggs singled to right center, scoring Van Haltren and Eagan. Slattery, the hard-hitting catcher, then went to bat and hit a two-bagger over first base, and Quick, Altman and Scruggs dashed around the bases and scored. Oakes shot the ball in to Brashead, and he threw it to Dillon at first base, and Umpire Perrine called Slattery out for not touching first base. Here is a fellow who scores three men without a hit or an error and was an easy out at first base. Guess that's goin' some.

This first inning ought to be enough, for the further you dig into the later history of the game, the more you find spasms almost as severe as the first one. This is how the result looked:

EVEN BREAK AT 'FRISCO.

SENSATIONAL FIELDING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—Portland and San Francisco broke even on the day, Skillman and Jones made a sorry showing in the morning at Oakland, but Sutor redeemed his teammates in the afternoon before a good crowd, shutting McCredie's aggregation, 2 to 0. Sensational fielding on both sides, and in particular, a one-handed catch by Mohler, and an assist by Johnson back of third, were the features of a game that was put through in double-quick time.

Garrett, for the Beavers, pitched good ball against Sutor, but thd bunching of hits against him in the second, and the home run by Melchoir in the seventh, combined to beat him. Portland worked a man as far as third once, but he died there.

The northerners proved themselves able to hit the ball in the forenoon struggle. Skillman was wild and, after four runs had been scored, he was replaced by Oscar Jones, who was found for five more tallies. After two hits off Harmon, he was replaced by Groom. The scores:

FINE WORK.

HURDITCH IN GREAT FORM.

Influx of New Members Helps Cricket Club.

Ashton and Watson Prove Good Fielders.

Heavens's Team Beats Tomkins's by Large Score.

Several new and prospective members took part in the second practice game at Vineyard Station yesterday afternoon, amongst those present being W. Giles, who used to play for the Hope Cricket Club, a strong Lancashire team, near Manchester. He is a good bat and gave a very creditable account of himself when playing for his team against Mellon, one of the North Derbyshire league elevens.

H. Clemens hails from London and wielded the willow for West Ham Athletics, a suburban team. He is an all-around-cricketer.

Scotland has a champion in J. Christie, who was a member of the Arbroath Artillery Club, and lately with the Yonkers, N. Y. Club. He is a fast bowler and came out high in the averages for Arbroath with 3.87 per wicket.

San Francisco is represented by F. P. Rivas, a baseball player. This is his first season at cricket, but as he has played ball with the Pioneers of that northern city and also with the Merchants' and National Bank of Los Angeles, he will be an acquisition as a fielder.

Santa Monica, it is pleasing to note, will be particularly strong this year. In addition to Elliot, of cricket and football fame, the two Justice brothers, who are both splendid bats, will be on the team, as also will Le Bas, Hunt, Sweet, Dudley, Bannister and several others, which will necessitate Los Angeles putting their strongest eleven into the field if they are to make a showing for the cup this year.

LOPSIDED SCORE.

The game between Heavens's team and one picked by Tomkins, was won by the former with the handsome margin of ninety-two runs.

Nash and Mills opened the innings for the victors, the former placing his first delivery neatly in the slips off Meggett, for which a single was run. Mills then played out the over without opening his account. Hunt of Santa Monica bowled from the opposite crease, when Nash again scored a single. In Meggett's next over, Nash opened his shoulders. He hit a 2 to square leg, following up with a drive to long off for 3. In Hunt's second over, Mills, in stepping out to slog, was clean bowled, Ramsden taking his place.

Nash continued to be aggressive, but in stepping out to hit at a loose ball from Hunt, misjudged the pace and was very nearly stumped by Sweet the wicket-keeper, when he had made 14. Fortunately he was just inside his crease. With only one added to his total, however, he was neatly taken at the wicket by Sweet off Meggett. Sommerville filling his place.

The batsman broke his "duck" by putting Hunt to mid on for a single. In Meggett's next over he late cut that bowler for 2, in his usual finished style. Hunt then gave place to Christie, who, with his first delivery displaced Ramsden's off stump, that batsman retiring after having scored 8. Morris, last year's prize bat winner, then went in and played out the over. With the board showing 32, Tompkins relieved Tyke Meggett, and for the first two overs kept the score down by well pitched deliveries.

In Christie's second over, Sommerville began to lash out. He made a magnificent hit to square leg for 6, and would have added very appreciably to his score in this over, had the fielding been in any way slack. Tompkins obtained his wicket, however, by sending down a beauty which took the middle stump high up.

NEW YORK DOES WELL.

C. P. Hurditch, lato of the Staten Island Cricket Club, and an excellent wicket-keeper, then took his stand at the wickets, and displayed a style peculiar to only first-class players. He opened his account with a single off Tompkins, followed by two singles off Christie. He then put the left-hander to leg for 2, and with his next stroke scored a single. He then drove that same bowler to the off for 3, and in Christie's next over he made another powerful hit also for 3.

With the score at 77, McCombe relieved the Scotchman, but saw his first ball driven to the outfield by the Staten Islander, for which 3 was run. Morris then cut that bowler's next delivery for 2. When he had made 23, Hurditch gave a hard chance to Giles, who was fielding at point, but which was not accepted. This proved expensive, as the New Yorker hit a 2 followed by a 5, to the deep field, both off McCombe.

At 95, both Morris and Hurditch retired in favor of Bhumgara and Salter, With 100 on the telegraph board, a double change in the bowling was made, Packman relieving McCombe, while Giles went to the opposite crease. This had the desired effect, as in the former's second over, Salter was clean bowled.

With the exception of Watson, who is a first-class cricketer, the balance of the side gave little or no trouble. This was due to the effective bowling of Lewis, a fast right-arm twirler, who captured the wickets of Brown, Thomas and Heavens in quick succession. With 10 extras, the whole team was out for 124.

TOMKINS'S WORK GOOD.

Hunt and Sweet opened the innings for their side, facing Nash and Ramsden. The latter was out first ball to a fast one from Nash. In that bowler's second over, Watson brought off a magnificent catch at long on, which dismissed Hunt of Santa Monica, for which he was applauded. Not content with this, he was responsible for Kitchin's dismissal by catching out that batsman off Ramsden. Bhumgara, not to be outdone by this close fielding, caught out Lewis, and with only 5 runs scored, 4 wickets were down.

With the total at 12, Ashton, fielding at cover point, caught out McCombe, and with the score unchanged that fielder brought off a second catch which dismissed Meggett. Hurditch then caught Packman behind the wickets off Nash, that batsman's place being taken by Giles. Sommerville at this stage of the game replaced Ramsden with the ball, and sent down a maiden. Bhumgara was then put on at the opposite crease in place of Nash and also sent down a maiden.

Tomkins then opened out by hitting Sommerville to long leg for 4. At 21, Ashton brought off another catch which dismissed Giles. With the exception of Tomkins none of the other batters of the losing side reached double figures, and after their captain had been run out after scoring 12, the innings closed for the meager total of 32.

TWO STRONG MEN.

SINGER AND SIMPSON TIE.

LARGE NUMBER OF MARKSMEN AT SHOOT OF RIFLES.

Beginners Turn Out in Force for First Practice—Long Range at Five Hundred Yards Was not Ready for Use, but Will Be Tried Out Next Sunday.

George Simpson and Joe Singer tied for first honors with a score of 47 out of a possible 50, at the shoot of the Southern California Rifles at Schuetzen Park, yesterday. Simpson used his 25-20 Winchester, while Singer shot his fine Schuetzen rifle. Ade Orill and Frank Thompson tied for second with 44, and E. D. Neff and W. C. Beatty tied for third with 43.

Neff had the best score of those who shot three strings, making 127 out of a possible 150. Simpson made the best score of those who shot two strings, making 89 out of a possible 100. Beatty was high with the revolver, with a score of 47. Mrs. L. Andrews did the best work of the women who were given a separate target, scoring 42 out of a possible 50 at 200 yards.

A large class of beginners was taught how to handle the rifle under the instruction of several of the older hands at the game. A large number of the Fraternal Brotherhood teams were present and received instruction under Capt. Underwood and G. A. Millard.

There was no shooting at the 500-yard range, as the targets were not in readiness. By next Sunday the longer range work will begin. In the following scores, only the best scores are given. The squad under instruction did not issue official scores.

George Simpson, 25-20 Win	47

SAN JOSE, April 12.—The San José men hit De Parade's offerings all over the lot in the first six innings and San Francisco was hopelessly out of the running from the opening round. Score:

San José, 8; hits, 12; errors, 4.

San Francisco, 1; hits, 6; errors, 2.

Batteries—Stricklett and Eager; De Parade, Knell and Conrad.

Minor Baseball.

Of the many minor ball games played in Southern California yesterday, scores have been received of the following: At Joy Park, the Eagles shut out the Christopher-Levys by a 2 to 0 score and the Salt Lakes beat the Morans 10 to 1; at Thirty-eighth and Santa Fé the Pendo team beat the White Citys 7 to 5 and Home Council defeated the Lukes 6 to 5; the W., H. & A. team beat Pasadena at Pasadena by a 4 to 2 score; at Eleventh and Flower streets the Japs beat the Seventh-street Specials, 7 to 5; at Ocean Park the A. & C. team beat the Simpsons, 8 to 6; at Thirty-eighth and Santa Fé the W. D. & S. team beat the Racycles 9 to 2; at Highland Park the Western Stars lost to Highland Park, 14 to 4; at the County Hospital grounds the P. C. S. Co. team beat the Owls 6 to 3; at Norwalk the home team beat the News boys 1 to 0; at Hynes the Strongholds beat Hynes 8 to 2; at San Gabriel the Fraternal Aids won by default; the Riveras beat Belvedere 11 to 3 at Rivera; at Downey the Pico Heights team lost to Downey by a score of 7 to 4.

MORE MONEY FOR CHAMPION.

Black Wonder Will Meet Bat Nelson in May.

Contest Is Scheduled to Go Twenty Rounds.

McFarland May Fight Brock in This City.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Packey McFarland and his manager, Harry Gilmore, expect to leave for Chicago Wednesday night. Their plans are not entirely fixed but the lightweight is set upon getting home as soon as the train will carry him, and until he has seen the folks, he will not discuss further matches.

"Packey received a dispatch from his mother, just before the fight," said Gilmore, "in which she wished him success and hoped that it would be his last appearance in the ring, but he will go ahead just the same, and now that he is started so nicely, will not want to wait too long. He would have been ready to sign with Nelson and bet $2500 on the side, but I did not want to close negotiations last Saturday night. Now that Gans and Nelson are to meet, the prospects for a fight with the Battler are gone. I had mapped out in my mind a fight with Nelson and Unholz and then possibly Gans.

We have received a flattering offer from Los Angeles, and may fight before Jeffries's new club. We can get on with Phil Brock there and may accept the offer. McFarland wants, of course, to fight Gans, but not in a hurry. He knows Gans is a great fighter, and he would like a little more experience before he starts. I don't suppose that he would be ready to fight the champion by July, but we can talk about that later."

McFarland has received an offer of a week at the Trocadero Theater in Chicago, and will probably accept. He and Gilmore may return home by way of Los Angeles, stopping in that city two or three days.

GANS-NELSON GO.

WILL FIGHT IN MAY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Manager Gleason has closed arrangements for a twenty-round fight between Joe Gans and Battling Nelson for some night during "fleet week" in San Francisco, probably the night of May 11.

When this match was first proposed Nelson seemed willing, but some of his friends put him up to demanding forty-five rounds, claiming he could not make his best showing against so clever a boxer as Gans in twenty rounds. Gans, however, declined to listen to such a proposal, so Bat finally agreed and articles were signed today.

The fight will be given the same week as the Ketchel-Jack Twin Sullivan fight, which is set for May 9, and is sure to draw a great crowd, as several thousand sailors will want to see these expert lightweights fight.

NELSON CRAWLS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At a late hour tonight Nelson visited the newspaper offices, declaring he had changed his mind, and that he would not fight Gans twenty rounds, but would meet him in a forty-five-round contest. Selig, for Gans, claims the forfeits are up, and a tangle is sure to follow.

LOCAL PUGS STOP.

BIG DOINGS TOMORROW.

The big aggregation of fighters who will form the card for Tuesday night at the Pacific Athletic Club, finished their work yesterday and will do nothing more now except a little light road work this morning. All are reported in good condition and the results tomorrow night will show how true this dope is.

The greatest amount of interest in the results is centered in the battle between Rube Smith and Van Horn and Young McGovern and Kutchos. The winner of the first bout has a chance for a match with Mike Sullivan and McGovern is very anxious to make up for his recent defeat.

Non-Stop Run.

The Reo light touring car, which holds the world's two-cylinder and the Coast records, is still chugging on toward the 5000-mile mark. The engine is apparently in as good condition as on the day of the start a week from last Saturday. The motor will be kept running, if possible, until all known records are lowered.

Pa says: "A man never has real trouble until he has a son big enough to wear his clothes, ties, socks and things." What do you think? The old man told me the other day I was to brace up and wear better clothes. You see, I've held the job down for nearly four years—I'm most fifteen—and he says I'm to forget the Knickers and wear long pants, but Ma bought me some sailor togs to wear during fleet week, then me for "Ready and Right." Gee! but there will be things doing next week. A fellow who's got a best girl will have to put a bell on her or he'll sure lose her. I heard a man say the other day that fully one-third of this bunch of Jackies were college men, and well bred fellows, who enlisted for the chance of making a trip around the world.

The Silverwood Stores will look good to those chaps, all right, all right. Our swell suits, neckties, hats, fancy socks and things will make them sit up and take notice. I guess there's no stores west of New York that show such a big line of young men's fixings. I can't, for the life of me, see why a man wants to trade in any other store.

MINES AND MINING.

PUSHING OUT HIGH-GRADE ORE.

LITTLE FLORENCE LEASE IN ITS LAST HOURS.

Atlanta Syndicate Raises Over Seventy Tons of Rich Ore a Day—Kendall Shipments for Bonnie Claire Mine—Thirteen Leases Honeycomb Atlanta Ground.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) April 10.—As fast as a large force of picked men who are paid a good sized wage for their time, can work, the ore is being taken from the Little Florence mine. Even from the richest veins and with the tonnage being handled is high, the value will approximate a profit of $30.00 every twenty-four hours. The machine drills are now working in the main face of high-grade ore and from this point about forty tons are being taken daily. Settlements for the last four lots of this ore have been: $21.71, $718.15, $925.26 and $923. No settlement has yet been made for the ore taken out on the first few days following the strike of extremely rich ore at this point, which is known to be the best thus far developed in the lease, a considerable amount of sampling being necessary to determine its value. The Little Florence ore bodies on the 500 level, on the 26th day of this month, have already paid $130,000 in net profits and will make another dividend of profits within a few days. Before the expiration of the lease some $400,000 will be made of the two separate dumps of high grade milling ore which stand upon the ground.

GREAT VALUES.

The Atlanta-Syndicate lease, adjoining the Little Florence, has received assays from the Western Ore Purchasing Company for the ore mined during the first six days of April. The tonnage mined is 446 tons and the value in payment were for the 300 tons daily, nearly double the output of the Little Florence, and with more drills. Machine drills are stopping in the two big veins at the 500-foot level and will continue to take out ore as well into the month of May.

At the south end of the Combination lease the Little Florence Company has sunk from the upper block upon which it is down 500 feet and the shaft is being a pipe line from the workings on the same claim to supply air for the operation of the drills. Within another day or two the plant will be in readiness to run ore and crosscuttings will be made to the east and west at the 500 level.

TO BONNIE CLAIRE.

A body of high-grade ore is showing in the heart of a drift in the Gardner-Kendall, covering a small area of that property. This ore body is a continuation of the ore body at the Kendall and has been extended for a distance of thirty feet. The exact size and dimensions of the ore body are unknown as the work progresses, but it is believed that it will be started within a few days from a point 100 feet deeper. Assays of the ore are said to run from $10,000 to the ton in places. Some of the ore is now being sacked and piled upon the dump and will be worked at the Bonnie Claire mill, thirty-five miles distant, which, however, is not expected to commence the treatment of ore at once.

GOLD CIRCLE.

Mining men who have returned from the Gold Circle, in Elko county, are loud in their praise of the district. Although but little work has been done some of the largest companies in the State are getting in. Ore bodies are immense, the values, principally all in gold, are high and are found over a wide area and there is an abundant supply of good water for all purposes. There are a few milling quartz from three to ten feet in width and some of extraordinary richness have been opened. The two townsites, Gold Circle and Jarbidge, have a population of 1000 persons with more coming in. A number of automobile lines have been established between Gold Circle and Golconda, on the main line of the Southern Pacific and Jarbidge, 65 miles distant. Mining properties which are attracting the attention of Goldfield operators are located about thirty miles east of Goldfield in the Cactus Peak section, and in the Jarbidge camp which has just been opened a townsite laid out. The latter is about nineteen miles from Rawhide.

GOING DEEP.

The property of the Diamond-Goldfield Mountain Company, three miles south of Goldfield in this district, has reached a depth of 500 feet and a station has been cut at that level, where extensive work will be done. It is the intention of the company to sink the main veins to the 1000-foot level and from that point crosscut to the east and west at the depth of 1000 feet.

SCHOOL RESUMES.

The school which has resumed in Goldfield is the Goldfield school, starting at the corner of Main and Columbia streets. The Goldfield school is a handsome two-story structure, with a frontage of 100 feet, the shaft being 50 feet deep and 50 feet wide. Classes will be held in the basement as well as on the first and second floors. The building is situated on a hill overlooking the entire city and the surrounding country for many miles in all directions. From the present bottom level, where a station has been cut. The property is equipped with a complete plant, and good results are anticipated at this point.

Manager Louis Kountz has recommenced development on company account on the Goldfield Gold Bar, which is one of the class A mines of the district, and has one of the best plants in the State. The great ledge will be penetrated at the 500-foot level, and the product can readily be dumped by means of a chute directly into the railroad cars. The ledge of the Gold Bar is at least 100 feet wide, all of high milling grade, and carries shipping values in places. The values are almost entirely in gold, although the ore carries a considerable percentage of copper in the form of tetrahedrite. An immense body of milling ore has been developed to a depth of nearly 300 feet, mostly in the oxidized zone, and the rich seams are expected to show something big below the real water level.

ATLANTA BUSY.

Thirteen leases are now operating on the Atlanta and the recent advance in the market quotation of the stock, attended by marked activity in trading, is ascribed to the greatly improved appearance of the workings at several points on the ground. The property is believed to have the extension of the principal veins of the Jumbo; indeed, from the surface formation and trend of the main dykes, it can scarcely fail to get these ledges, although apparently sufficient depth has not yet been attained to reach the ore of paying quality. Beside these veins it is considered probable that the Atlanta will prove to have some of the great cross fissures which run in that direction from the Florence. The Atlanta Boom Company, leasing on the Atlanta and the adjoining Boom Fraction, has exposed some excellent values, and is in line to strike the junction of the main dyke from the Jumbo and one of the cross leads from the west, at which point something worth while in the way of a high-grade body should develop.

CODD RESUMES.

The Codd lease on the St. Ives, operated by the St. Ives Leasing Company, which is making a record with its lease on the Balloon claim at Rawhide, resumed work some time ago, having already reached a depth of 400 feet, and a contract has been let to go to the 500 level without delay. A decided change has been noted during the past week in the formation through which the shaft is going, and at present the character of the rock is almost identical with that of the Mohawk and other mines in which the quartz carries high values. Several shipments of high grade ore were made from the 100-foot level, but the formation was badly broken, and Manager Codd is confident of getting the rich stuff in place at the 500 level.

C.O.D. COPPER.

The highest copper values yet secured in the Goldfield district are exposed in the lower levels of the C.O.D. mine, lying between the Atlanta and Gold Bar and controlled by the same people who own the latter. Seams of ore have given assays up to $150 in gold and $75 in copper. The big ledge pans gold freely throughout and is evidently the extension of the Gold Bar dyke. Extensive development will be prosecuted on this property, under the management of L. K. Kountz, and important developments are anticipated during the coming season. A number of leases, all of which are well equipped with machinery, and will sink to depth, are now at work on the C.O.D.

LIME POINT RUSH.

Lime Point, situated some thirty miles southwest of Goldfield, is attracting widespread attention in this section, and a small rush has taken place to the district during the past few days. The growing conviction that the Great Western mine is one of the big things of Southern Nevada has had the effect of creating keen interest, and a number of Goldfield men have been trying to secure ground near that property. Walter Whitmore and associates have secured a group adjoining the Great Western, and will proceed to develop it on a liberal scale. Everything in the neighborhood of the mine has been staked, and a yet-nameless townsite laid out. The Great Western is making daily shipments of ore to the Goldfield mills, hauling its product with two sixteen-mule teams from the mine to Cuprite on the Goldfield-Bullfrog Railroad, and the ore is returning the Russell brothers and Murphy, the principal owners, an average of from $125 to $138 per ton.

BANKERS FACE GRAVE CHARGES,

BISBEE FINANCIAL INSTITUTION IN SERIOUS TROUBLE.

President and Cashier of First National Bank Indicted by the Grand Jury—Wealthy Woman Dies Under Suspicious Circumstances—Mexican Authorities Release Body of Ranger.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) April 11.—From the evidence collected by United States Attorney Alexander, there appears to have been considerable rottenness in the management of the First National Bank of this city, lately closed by the authorities. President W. J. Eddleman and Cashier J. H. Nolan have been held to the United States grand jury with bail at $30,000 and $20,000, respectively.

From evidence it would appear as though the pair had used the bank's funds practically as their own, notably $5000 which was, it is claimed, "kited" by way of El Paso back to the bank, and which was credited to Eddleman's account on January 9, when he had just $43 to his credit. Notes for the amount are still in the bank and way overdue.

Attorney Alexander tried to put in evidence to the effect that Eddleman had threatened one of the directors with a pistol when the director had tried to have an accounting of the cash on hand, but this question was not permitted by Commissioner Stanford.

Eddleman was held on three counts, all growing out of the $5000 loan, Nolan was held on two charges, one of falsifying an entry in a bank report made August 22, 1907, wherein he stated that the cash on hand at that time was $29,318.17, when, in fact, no such sum was on hand. The other charge was that of misapplication of funds in payments made on a note of $5000 signed by Fred Sutter, and payable to the order of R. W. Moore.

A SUSPICIOUS CASE.

A few days ago there came to the St. Denis lodging-house in Douglas an elderly woman, Mrs. Robert Redding, accompanied by two younger women, her nieces. To the landlady they represented that Mrs. Redding was practically insane through excessive use of narcotics, and they asked that she be kept secluded as much as possible. The landlady was suspicious of the younger women's actions, owing to the fact that she saw them administer laudanum to their patient despite her strong protests. Hearing groans, she ran to the room occupied by the women in time to hear Mrs. Redding exclaim, "For God's sake, don't make me take any more of that stuff; it will kill me."

Mrs. Redding told her that she had been robbed of all her money, and had nothing left of value but a watch. The party left Douglas for El Paso on the way to Deming, where Mrs. Redding had property. A couple of days later the body of Mrs. Redding was found in a mudhole on the outskirts of Deming. She was well known in that vicinity, having lived in the neighborhood and in Silver City for about twenty-five years. She was held in high esteem and the tale that she is an opium fiend is not generally believed.

The younger women were examined by the Coroner, but nothing could be learned from them except that their aunt was so completely under the control of a narcotic habit that they had been advised by a physician to continue the use of opium, with her in mild doses. No case has been made out against any one, the Coroner's jury permitting the matter to drop. Mrs. Redding's husband committed suicide about a year ago.

MEXICANS ARE COURTEOUS.

The Mexican authorities have shown notable courtesy in connection with the disposition of the body of Sergt. Jeff Kidder of the Arizona Rangers, who died at Naco, Sonora, Mexico, Sunday morning, from wounds received the day before in an encounter with Mexican police.

Kidder was conscious nearly the whole time up to his death and talked continually with friends who were permitted to visit him, saying that he had hoped to live, and was not afraid to die, knowing that he was innocent of precipitating the trouble.

The Mexican law prohibits the export of a body from the republic until at least six months after death, but the rule was waived in this particular. The body was delivered over to the Elks Lodge of Bisbee, which paid the memory of their deceased brother fitting honor. The interment was at San Jacinto, Cal., where Kidder's mother resides.

HUNT HORSE THIEVES.

Capt. Harry Wheeler of the Arizona Rangers has returned from a twenty-day trip through the mountains of Southern and Southeastern Arizona, looking for horse thieves. Wheeler and his men traversed about 500 miles of rough mountain country, hunting for outlawry of every form, and, particularly, for a band of cattle stealers, supposed to have headquarters near Nacozari, Sonora. Nothing of importance was learned on the trip, but it is considered of value in its effect upon cattle and horse thieves who have been operating in the mountains of the vicinity.

FRACTURE CAUSES DEATH.

Joseph Bier, employed on the 1000-foot level of the Lake Superior and Pittsburgh mine, has died in the Copper Queen Hospital from a fracture of the skull, due to a fall to the foot of a sixty-foot incline.

ARIZONA BREVITIES.

Otto LaBiance last Friday night was run over and killed by a train on the Southwestern Railroad near San Bernardino.

Tuesday night $14,000 damage was done in Bisbee through the destruction by fire of the skating rink, owned by D. J. Spires, and of the Armstrong residence near by. There is $7500 insurance.

Charges of fraud have been made in Congress in connection with the distribution of $12,000 to the Kickapoo Indians at Douglas, a week ago. It is claimed that Frank K. Thackeray, an Indian school superintendent, was a large beneficiary.

Last Monday an earthquake shock was noted at Douglas, the zone of disturbance being as far south as Nacozari, seventy-five miles. It was particularly strong at Fronteras, where articles were thrown from shelves and windows were broken.

Tuesday a dust storm did hundreds of dollars' worth of damage in the vicinity of Douglas, and caused much discomfort to the whole of the district, including Douglas, Bisbee and Naco. A part of the new Warren Operahouse was blown down.

At Tombstone it is announced that the United States is about to commence suit against the Arizona Copper Company of Clifton for $4000, penalty exacted for the importation of four Scotchmen to take places in the employ of the company, in violation of the alien immigration laws.

Cochise county will ask extradition from New Mexico of Mat Burts, now serving a six months' term in the New Mexican penitentiary. Burts, who was a member of the old Alvord-Styles gang, is wanted for an attempt to kill Robert Warren at a round-up north of Dragoon. The crime was committed several years ago, just after Burts had served a term in the Arizona penitentiary for complicity in the great train robbery at Cochise station.

Two years ago the Cochise County Supervisors, as is usual, printed a proclamation of primary elections in papers of different political faiths. The Bisbee Evening Miner paralyzed the Supervisors by a bill of $919.60 for the service. As another daily journal had charged only $234 for the same advertisement, the Supervisors rejected the claim as excessive. In Tombstone, a jury has just found for the plaintiff, in the sum of $750.

Antonio Sarabin, the alleged Mexican revolutionist, kidnaped at Douglas several months ago, and later released by the Mexican authorities on demand of Gov. Kibbey, has sued for damages in the District Court at Tombstone, the principal defendant being Antonio Maza, Mexican Consul at Douglas.

Cochise county collects $20,000 or more a year license taxes from 180 licensed saloons.

WINNIPEG (Man.) April 12.—Notices were sent out yesterday from the general offices of the Canadian Pacific, the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk, ordering the heads of departments to cut expenses, either by laying off men or by reducing wages.

...Times Atlas...
For the benefit of patrons of The Times, arrangements were made some time ago for the publication of an up to date atlas of the world. This book has just been received, and is ready for delivery to patrons who may desire it on the terms of the contract printed below.
Maps
It is just the thing for the office, the library, the home and the schoolroom. It contains numerous maps, all of which are new and strictly up to date. Inspection of it will prove this to the satisfaction of any one.
Illustrations
The illustrations are a fetching feature of the atlas. It contains many beautiful half-tone pictures of subjects of interest from all over the world, and special maps and illustrations of Southern California.
Type and Binding
The type throughout is large, clear-cut and legible. Work is generally attractive and durably bound in cloth.
The regular retail price of the atlas is $5.00, but The Times has made arrangements for the purchase of several thousand of them, so we are able to put them out with patrons of The Times, either new or old, at a very low price, in accordance with the following contract.

GRIZZLED VETERANS.

SAILED WITH EVANS, HOPES TO GREET HIM.

John Londerman,

veteran of navy, who sailed under Dewey and Evans, and had many remarkable adventures at sea. Now driving a stage in Laurel Cañon and looking forward joyfully to the arrival of the fleet.

WHEN the great fleet gets here no man will rejoice more than John Londerman. If Admiral Evans is able to be on deck, Londerman's joy will be greater, but should the admiral be unable to participate in the festivities none will regret it more.

Londerman is a grizzled veteran of the navy. Twenty-eight years he served Uncle Sam, followed the Star Spangled Banner and sailed under it on every sea. Now he has retired to end his days in quiet ashore. He lives in beautiful Laurel Cañon, back of Hollywood, where he runs a stage and carries tourists from the cars up to Bungalow Land. He came here from Elmhurst, near Oakland, where he resided after his retirement, making the trip south in a wagon with his wife and two children.

Nine medals show the veteran's record in part. Some he proudly wears every day. The largest bears the inscription, "the gift of eighty million Americans," and can only be worn by officers and men of the fleet that took Manila. Londerman was a gunner on the Concord, under Dewey.

FOUGHT UNDER DEWEY.

"Dewey was a fine man and we're proud of him," said he. "When we left Hongkong the Britishers told us we would never make it into Manila. 'We're sorry for you,' they said. 'We've tried it and so have others and couldn't, and with big fleets, too.' But we had the former consul at Manila with us, and he knew everything about the tides and the entrances to the bay, so we got in where they weren't looking for us to come. We were nearly past the fort, with our lights all out, when by some slip the McCullough let out a lot of sparks from her funnel and gave us away. The Spaniards opened fire and we replied. I had just given 'em a third shot when the order came from the Olympia, 'save your ammunition and don't fire.' You see we were 6000 miles from home and the admiral knew we would need all we had for more serious work.

"Well, it was a great day's work. The poor Spaniards fought their best and they were brave fellows, but what could they do? They hadn't ammunition, nor training, nor proper organization. They had torpedoes planted in the bay so that they simply sank and we went over them safely."

Londerman was on the Trenton at Samoa when the terrible hurricane destroyed that ship and the Vandalia, together with the three German warships, the Olga, Eva and Adler, and a host of merchant ships in the harbor of Apia.

TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

"I was a boatswain then," he said, "and as I was trying to throw a line to the Vandalia a big wave washed me overboard. The next thing I knew I was on the beach with a broken ankle and was badly bruised and battered. It was a terrible experience. All over the shore were bodies of the men who had been drowned, and all around were men scarcely able to move, Germans and Americans. The pitiful sights I shall not forget to my dying day. Before the storm the harbor was crowded with shipping; when it grew calm not a sail was left.

"The British ship Calabria was the only one that got to sea and escaped. As she forced her way out we all cheered and cheered, and afterward, when he came back to our aid, Capt Kane said it was that sound which nerved his men to their work and saved the vessel.

The veteran had thrilling experiences in Hawaii, Brazil and Panama. He was one of the party landed from the old steamer Adams at Honolulu at the time of the Wilcox rebellion, and was wounded. He was among those who caught the leader in a big tank in the grounds of the royal palace, dressed in an Italian uniform. He was in a landing party in Brazil in stormy times, when the American tars were not received as enthusiastically as they were when Evans visited Rio de Janeiro coming to California. Again he was on duty on the Isthmus of Panama with the troubles between the French canal company and its laborers turned the narrow strip into a battleground, calling for American intervention.

A native American himself, born on the rocky coast of Maine, Londerman defends the foreign-born citizens who in the past made up so large a portion of the men of the navy. "A good many of the boys were born abroad," he said, "but they are good men and good citizens, and faithful to the country, and ready to fight for Uncle Sam any day.

"Will I ever go back to sea? Well, no, I guess I'll end my days ashore now, but sometimes I get homesick for the ocean. It is hard to change when one is so used to it. Yes, I'll go and see the admiral if I can."

CHAPTER XVI.

In June, when the gardens at Yelverton were glorious with roses (and Katherine's one task seemed to be hunting the children out of the strawberry beds,) Cuthbert Baynhurst and his wife returned to town.

They did not do this voluntarily; it was literally to see his mother die that Cuthbert was summoned back to England.

Rupert Haverford himself wrote the message that brought his half-brother home.

He himself was on the eve of sailing for the United States when his mother's condition became so serious.

He had promised Mrs. Brenton to spend one night at Yelverton before leaving for America, but of course all his arrangements were upset.

"It is impossible to describe to you the suffering my poor mother is enduring just now," he wrote. "She is amazingly brave, and her brain is as active as ever. It sounds cruel to say it, but I almost regret this, for she persists in fatiguing herself. Only yesterday she worked for three hours."

Another time he wrote:

"She has been very ill for some time, how ill no one but she herself has known, but undoubtedly she has hastened matters to the present crisis by her unhappiness about Cuthbert's marriage. It was a great shock to her, she craves for him, and seems to torture herself with vain and unreasonable jealousy. I am most unhappy about her. . . . It is a bitter thing to feel that I have not the gift of ministering to her!"

All these letters passed into Katherine's hands.

Usually she read them out in the garden, and when she was alone.

She was well again, but very restless in these days. After that nervous breakdown Mrs. Brenton endeavored to treat her as a kind of invalid, but she quickly abandoned this as a hopeless undertaking, and indeed the girl very speedily picked up her color and her strength. But she was changed; her calm, determined, practical mood was gone altogether.

There were many times when Mrs. Brenton was puzzled and even troubled by her manner, and nothing was more difficult for her to understand than the friendship which appeared to have sprung up between Miss Graniger and Sir Samuel Broxbourne.

Sir Samuel was always up at Yelverton at unexpected moments.

As the Brentons had known him since he was a boy he was outside the category of guests; but though Mrs. Brenton was hospitality itself, she really chafed a little at his constant visits, and if she could only have imagined that he was indirectly or directly connected with what she in her plain-spoken way called Camilla's "wickedness," he would have found himself shut out of Yelverton in particularly quick time.

As it was, very little of what went on in Broxbourne's world found its way to Mrs. Brenton's ears, and she was in happy ignorance of the fact that when Camilla had broken her traces in that startling fashion, Broxbourne had been as much an object of curiosity to a certain section of society as Rupert Haverford himself.

Nevertheless she gave him very little encouragement to come so often; but Sir Samuel was, happily for himself, thick-skinned.

"What do you find to talk about, you two?" she asked Katherine on one occasion, almost irritably; and the girl shrugged her shoulders.

"I listen," she said; and then, with an effort, she had added, "Sir Samuel amuses the children. He is always inventing some marvelous games."

"Yes," said Mrs. Brenton, thoughtfully; "but it is not a bit like Sammy Broxbourne to spend his time inventing games to amuse children."

Miss Graniger's eyes had flashed, and she had laughed for a moment.

"I expect he finds the country air refreshing after town."

"Is it possible," Mrs. Brenton said to her husband after this little conversation, "is it possible that Sammy has fallen in love with Katherine?"

Mr. Brenton closed his book with his finger in it to keep the place.

"It does not seem improbable," he said; and then he added, "Katherine is a very sweet girl."

To which his wife retorted:

"Do you think I don't know that? She is much too sweet for a man like Sammy."

In a vague sort of way this question of Broxbourne seemed to divide Katherine and Mrs. Brenton. The older woman resented, not unnaturally, the fact that the girl should not confide in her.

"Of course, if he is in love, and he wants to marry her, it might be foolish to do anything to prevent it. Though he is not very nice himself, he has a very nice position, and his people are the kindest creatures in the world. It would be what the world would call a wonderful marriage for Katherine, I suppose. But does he want to marry her? And would she have him?" Here Mrs. Brenton had to shrug her shoulders hopelessly. "I should have thought he would have been the last man on earth to attract her."

And Katherine was perfectly well aware of what was passing in the other woman's mind. It was one of the many little prickly burdens which she carried in her heart in these days.

If it could have been possible to have shared this trouble with Agnes Brenton, she would have done it gladly; but she knew that Camilla's disloyalty had worked far deeper into the heart of this woman, who had loved her with the anxious love of a mother for so many years, than even Agnes Brenton herself realized.

Mrs. Brenton had never set Camilla on a pedestal; she had never proclaimed her faultless, but she had never ceased to find reasonable excuses for all the mistakes that the younger woman had made.

Her love had always been tempered by her judgment. She had forgiven more in Camilla than she would have been able to forgive in other people; but she could not easily pardon that act of betrayal, that deliberate renunciation of right, of honor and of duty.

Katherine was by no means sure that if she were to have laid before Mrs. Brenton the facts which Sir Samuel had disclosed to her that sad and strange morning, she would have received any suggestion of help. On the contrary, it seemed to her that Camilla's old friend might have been more definitely estranged, as assuredly she would have been made more miserable were she to have listened to that story of temptation and weakness and dishonor.

Katherine herself, though she pitied, also condemned.

Undoubtedly the woman had been sorely tried; she must have endured a veritable torture at Broxbourne's hands, but surely (Katherine argued now,) surely she owed the man who had loved her so wonderfully, too big a debt of gratitude to have exposed him so needlessly to the heart suffering and humiliation she had brought upon him?

"What she ought to have done," the girl said over and over again to herself, "was, firstly, to have broken her engagement, then if he had pressed her for an explanation, she could have told him the truth. I know this must have seemed too hard for her to do, but I know, too, that such love as he had for her can work miracles. If she had only thrown herself on his hands for protection, I am convinced he would have stood by her. As it is, she has lost him, she has lost Agnes Brenton, she has sold herself into a worse bondage than any she ever had in the past!"

And still though she judged, and even condemned, Katherine could not detach herself from this woman. In her turn she owed a heavy debt to Camilla, a debt that was sweet to pay, that claimed from her the best she had to give.

The same spirit that had sent her out into the night, eagerly defiant of fatigue, loneliness, or any possible danger, merely to stand beside this helpless, lovable woman, animated her still. She could not shut out of her remembrance the pleading pathetic-ness of Camilla's look the last time they had met, and though they were now parted by an irrevocable barrier, she remained still acutely sensitive to the spell exercised by that creature of wayward moods and tenderest influences.

When Mrs. Cuthbert Baynhurst reached London, she at once wired to Yelverton, announcing her arrival, and desired that the children might be taken to town the following day to meet her.

To Miss Graniger she sent a little pleading note, in which she asked the girl to bring the children herself.

"She has at least the grace not to suggest coming here," said Mrs. Brenton, with a laugh that had the sound of tears in it.

Then she looked at Katherine.

"You will go?" she said in a low voice; and the girl said:

"Yes."

The Cuthbert Baynhursts were installed naturally in one of the best suites of one of the largest and most sumptuous hotels.

It was so strange, so natural, and yet so unreal to see Camilla again!

She looked marvelously well; that fretted, excited, nervous air had gone entirely.

As Betty phrased it.

"You look so pretty, mummy darling, just like a new, young girl."

The presence of the children relieved the situation to a great extent, yet both Katherine and Cuthbert Baynhurst's wife felt the strain of this meeting sharply.

"You're going to stay with me a day or two?" said Camilla, entreatingly. "It will be sweet to have you." Then with a flash of her old merriment, "Remember we are cousins now."

Katherine shook her head.

"I am afraid I must go back this evening; but the children will be all right Dennis."

And Camilla bit her lip.

"If course, if you must go, you must go." Then she added, restlessly, "I hope we shall not stay her more than a few days ourselves. It was horrible coming at all. And then I am so afraid this illness will upset Cuthbert. He is so sensitive. I have entreated him not to stay longer than a few minutes in his mother's room. I wish he need not go in at all. Cancer is such an awful thing."

Then she shuddered.

Katherine said nothing. She had no reason to care one way or another about Mrs. Baynhurst, but it was impossible for her to withhold her pity in such an hour as this; because she knew, none better, the hopelessness of the mother's passionate love for her second child, and because it had been a creed with Octavia Baynhurst to sneer at womanly weakness and suffering; to deny almost scornfully the terrors of death.

And now death had come upon her—and what a death!

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best.

"I have never had a medicine in my store that gave such universal satisfaction as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," said Mr. P. M. Shore of Rochester, Ind. "It is the best remedy today on the market for coughs, colds and whooping cough. One of my lady customers told me recently that she could not keep house without it, that since they have been using it they have had no need of a doctor." In case of a severe attack of croup a physician will usually call twice, and perhaps half a dozen times in a severe and long protracted case of whooping cough, while in pneumonia it is often necessary that he call once or twice a day for a week or two. All of this trouble and expense may be saved by the judicious use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, for it is a certain cure for croup, and when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. Pneumonia can also be prevented. This fact has been fully proven, as during the entire thirty years and more in which this remedy has been in general use no case of a cold or attack of the grip has ever resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, so far as we have been able to learn. It will be seen that a little forethought and by doing the right thing at the right time, all danger and expense may be avoided. Bear in mind that every bottle of this remedy is warranted and if not as stated it will not cost you a cent.

AN ELECTION BUGABOO.

Poor Business of Presidential Elections Is Because Men Build up a Scare.

"There is a time-honored idea that a Presidential year disturbs business. Like a number of other time-honored ideas it is more dependent upon its age than its truth," says an editorial in the April Appleton's. "Put on blue glasses and you will see things blue. The people who are looking for trouble put on blue glasses whenever they get a chance. A Presidential year gives them a chance. The danger of these people is that they try to make the rest of us look through their glasses. If we refuse no harm is done.

"Many years ago that brilliant Englishman, James Payn, saw how really harmless were our elections. What has happened since strengthens his view. He pointed out that our national elections every four years enable us to blow off steam and relieve pent-up feelings. That they thus prevent the revolutions and terrific strains from which Europe suffers.

"The people with the blue glasses, the calamity howlers, have always had their hands full working up election scares. This year their task is all but hopeless. Their old cry of 'An election unsettles business' is denied them. For better or for worse business has already been unsettled. The unsafe business stagings which the gamblers had built up in the name of High Finance have crashed to the ground. The builders of these flimsy structures have been turned out of responsible business circles. Turfed out not by the President, the Attorney-General, or the police, but by their own former colleagues—the honest and conservative financial leaders of America. Business can't be unsettled because it has already been unsettled. The destroyers have had their day! The hour for the builders has come! The destroyers have done both good and harm. The builders can do all good and no harm. Nothing short of a revolution or a series of disastrous foreign wars could undermine our foundation for national prosperity. Changing administrations are as powerless to affect it as are the changing seasons.

"A man once picked a kettle off a stove and then dropped it with a cry of pain. He thought himself badly burned until he found there was no fire in the stove. In this way and in this way only can American business be disturbed by the Presidential election. The people who are looking for trouble will find it. They always do. The people who have scared themselves will continue to be scared just so long as they continue to scare themselves. They are the people who are afraid to do business in a Presidential year. They are the people who don't do much business in any year. But as long as we don't look at things through their glasses they won't look blue to us."

To Temper the Wind.

A mot of Dr. Weir Mitchell, the famous poet and novelist, is going the rounds of the Franklin Inn, a literary club of Philadelphia.

On a particularly blustery March morning, the story goes, Dr. Mitchell walked round City Hall Square with a young editor.

As the two men held on their hats and leaned against the blast, Dr. Mitchell said:

"I think a shorn lamb should be kept tethered here, don't you? Providence, then, might be induced to temper the wind."—[Exchange.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE.

Clarence C. Eaton Addresses Large Audience at Auditorium Under Auspices of Second Church.

A large gathering of people listened to the lecture of Clarence C. Eaton at the Auditorium yesterday on the subject of Christian Science.

The lecture will be repeated this evening at Simpson Auditorium.

Mr. Eaton was introduced yesterday by G. M. Giffen. In the course of his remarks he said:

"Christian Science does not announce a new, strange or irrational God, but rather unfolds and declares a correct comprehension and right understanding of the one God, His nature, qualities and law. One infinitely good God, is all it recognizes and proclaims.

"It demonstrates that God, good, is supreme in intelligence, wisdom, power, truth, justice and love, and therefore includes the consciousness of infinite good. It proves that He is the mind, spirit, soul, life and substance of all that actually exists; also that He is the author of all true being, the origin and source of all entity or existence, the only cause or creator, whose works are spiritual, righteous, unchanging and eternal.

"Christian Science declares that God is the principle of His creation; hence the energizing, governing, controlling, directing, sustaining presence of the universe—the very law of completeness, perfection and harmonious operation of all that is. It declares that He is love; hence He is compassionate, merciful, tender, loving, comforting, true. In a word, Christian Science teaches that God, our Heavenly Father, is All-in-All.

"God, the Divine Mind, never did anything to warrant theology's strange conception of Him. He never made a man sick, and he never killed any one, or anything. He never sent death to rob a home of a loving parent or friends. He never tore a babe from its mother's breast. He never set a motherless waif adrift on the treacherous sea of adversity. He never caused a railway accident, a disaster at sea, a holocaust, an earthquake nor a cyclone. He never visited humanity with a flood, a drouth, a famine, a pestilence, a war, nor an epidemic of disease.

"We entirely misapprehend the divine nature if we think that from the presence of a just God there can possibly proceed dire calamities. These and all kindred experiences are none other than the distressing concomitants, the iniquitous machinations of materialism—the bitter legacies of human belief, fear, ignorance and superstition.

"Christian Scientists, while appreciating and acknowledging the philanthropic service which Mrs. Eddy has rendered this age, its magnitude they cannot measure. Her life of sweet simplicity, spiritual devoutness and self-sacrifice, her loving loyalty to God, the purity of its purpose and her devotion and faithfulness to the exalted ministry to which she was providentially called, alone has made possible the healing metaphysically of all manner of diseases today as in Jesus's time. Think what that alone means to humanity and then ask what shall I render for all these benefits?

"We do not worship Mrs. Eddy, but we do respect and love her, because she first loved us and has unreservedly given her life to this great cause for us and all mankind. Yet, notwithstanding all this, no woman has suffered more unjustly from the persecutions of mortals. But with a prayer of forgiveness in her heart, she patiently, meekly, and humbly toils on in the way of God's appointing, preaching good tidings unto all, proclaiming liberty to the captives, binding up the broken-hearted, giving comfort and joy to them that mourn, beauty for ashes, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness, that they might be redeemed and that God might be glorified.

"Christian Science is entirely devoid of mysticism and formalism, and as it has no other mission than to impart spiritual understanding to its adherents, in the worship of God it discards traditional forms, ceremonies and incantations. Nothing bordering on the spectacular—nothing that confuses it with paganism, a revival of Oriental superstition or even modern ecclesiasticism—nothing which would appeal directly to the senses, or play upon the feelings or emotions, enters into its policy or institutional life.

"Now briefly, and by the way of summary and conclusion, what does Christian Science promise to do? In answering every need of humanity, it declares and reveals as God of love, proclaims an irresistible Christ or Savior and an operative salvation, discloses the all perfection or man and the harmony and eternity of his relation to his maker, and spiritually interprets and illumines the sacred scriptures. It promises to establish a universal brotherhood, equalize the sexes, terminate human strife, impartially adjust and control civil, political and social conditions, extirpate criminality and whatever incapacitates, wrongs or curses mankind. It promises to wipe all tears away, heal the grief-stricken heart, release those in bonds to sensuality and sweep away the fear, want, misery, agony, sorrow and woe which have desolated many generations. It promises to abolish forever the belief in sin, sickness, death and hell. All this and even more than we can ask or think, it promises to do naturally, lawfully, scientifically.

"What has the practice of Christian Science in fulfillment of its promises thus far resulted in? It has, through its clear and comprehensive exposition of true Christianity, effected the moral, physical and spiritual regeneration of tens of thousands who have accepted its teachings. Included in this vast army of believers are those who have suffered from every known sin and disease. It has reclaimed the drunkard and the immoral and rescued those enslaved by the tobacco, opium and kindred habits. It has restored the mentally deranged, opened the eyes of the blind, unstopped the ears of the deaf, made the dumb to speak and the lame to walk. It has reunited the members of disrupted families, dissipated the discouragement, despondency and gloom occasioned by poverty, misfortune, business failures, dishonesty and injustice. It has removed the fear, doubt and dismay entailed by affliction, sorrow and grief. It has taught men how to love their neighbors as themselves, to overcome evil with good, to be kind, forbearing, forgiving, gentle and true. Need I say more of the great good which Christian Science has already accomplished in order to satisfy you that it is the friend and not the foe of humanity?"

Blind Man's Ruse.

G. Bourcier St. Chaffray of the Zust car said, at a dinner in Michigan City, of a loss that he had more than made up:

"I made up that loss cleverly, did I not? It is like an old blind great-uncle of mine whom my father used to tell of.

"My great-uncle once buried $4000 in gold louis under a pear tree in his garden. His neighbor saw him do it, and in the dead of night came and stole the money, replacing the earth carefully.

"Some days later my uncle brought fifty more louis down to the pear tree for burial. He soon discovered his loss, and silently weeping, he, too, replaced the earth.

"He knew whom to suspect, and that night he called on his neighbor. He seemed thoughtful and distrait, and the neighbor asked him what oppressed his mind.

"'Well, I'll tell you,' said my great-uncle, frankly. 'I have 1000 louis hid away in a safe place, and today a tenant paid off a mortgage, and I have another 1000 louis in cash on my hands. I don't know whether to seek out another hiding place for this money, or put it where the other is. What do you advise?'

"'Why,' said the neighbor, eagerly, 'if your first hiding place is safe—and you declare it to be so—I should certainly put this money there, too.'

"My great-uncle said, firmly, that that was what he would do; it was the wisest course. Then he took his leave.

"And when, next day, he went to the pear tree again, there, sure enough, was his lost 1000 louis, all put back again.—[Exchange.

Lipton a Great Smoker.

A Pittsburgh millionaire said at a dinner:

"I lunched with Sir Thomas Lipton at the Ghezireh palace in Cairo just before he set out for his tea plantation in Ceylon, where the ex-Empress Eugenie was to visit him.

"When the coffee and Tarragone came on I opened my gold case and offered Sir Thomas a beautiful, aromatic cigarette fresh from the factory down the street.

"'No, thank you,' said he, 'I am, with one possible exception, the biggest smoker in the world, but I never smoke cigars nor cigarettes.

"'What do you smoke?' said I.

"'Bacon,' he answered."

RESPONDS TO CALL.

HAS SMALLER CHURCH IN MIND.

PASADENA PASTOR OFFERS HIS RESIGNATION.

Head of Lake-avenue Congregational Flock Asks That He Be Released by Latter Part of May. Special Need of Small Home Missionary Church Appeals to Him.

Office of The Times, No. 36 S. Raymond Ave.

PASADENA, April 13.—Previous to his sermon yesterday morning, Rev. Steven G. Emerson, for nearly ten years pastor of the Lake-avenue Congregational Church in this city, offered his resignation to the church, asking that action be taken by April 15, and that he be released from duty by May 24. While it was generally known that Rev. Emerson was greatly attracted by the call from the Logan Heights Church of San Diego, received some ten days ago, still his people hoped that he would not seriously consider the matter, but would remain with them.

After ten years work here, Rev. Emerson thinks that some new pastor would do greater work for the church, and the special need of this small home missionary church in San Diego has appealed to him strongly. So, while his large congregation here is loath to let him go, it is felt that the separation is inevitable. A special meeting of the church has been called for Wednesday evening, following the regular prayer meeting, and it now seems probable that the resignation will be accepted with great regret.

Rev. and Mrs. Emerson came to the Lake-avenue Church when it was a small and struggling one, with about fifty members. A fine edifice now stands where a small chapel then stood, the building having been completed four years ago. It is now free from debt. The special success of the church with the young people and children has caused it to be called the "children's church." Rev. Emerson goes not to a large and flourishing congregation, but has chosen a small struggling church for his field of endeavor. It seems to him to be God's call to duty. A well trained man, a graduate of Dartmouth and Oberlin, Mr. Emerson has held a prominent place among the city pastors since coming to Pasadena, and his scores of admirers outside his own congregation. His decision is very generally regretted.

WIN FINAL GAME.

In one of the best ten inning contests ever in Pasadena, the local baseball club yesterday afternoon made the winning run off Santa Barbara; the score being 5 to 4. This cinches the cup that was put up by the Winter League officials for the winners and the Pasadena nine now claims the trophy.

Jimmy Wilson was the hero of the game, his work at shortstop being applauded. He accepted twelve hard chances without an error. The score was 4 to 4 in the ninth and the Santa Barbara boys failed to score. Lee Wolf of Pasadena hit out a hard two bagger and made the winning run on a safe hit by Smuck. The Pasadena boys made twelve hits off Ferris while the visitors touched Marshall for six safeties.

GOOD TIME UP PEAK.

Miss J. Dunn of Los Angeles, accompanied by her father, W. Dunn, climbed the trail to the summit of Mount Wilson Saturday night in three hours elasped time. She covered the entire distance by moonlight, starting from the bottom at 7:10 o'clock in the evening and arriving at 10:10. It was her first experience at fast climbing and the result surprised her as well as every one else. The best record heretofore was three hours thirty-five minutes.

Charles Hanlon, H. C. Boden, S. Norman and George Mastrovitch, who are to take part in the hill climb race on April 29, were out training on the trail yesterday.

WILL LEAVE CLEAR FIELD.

That the field may be clear for his successor, Rev. William MacCormack, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church implored his congregation yesterday morning to come to the Easter service prepared to raise the debt of $4000 now on the parish. Last year $7500 was raised at the morning sevice and it is expected that the $4000 will be raised easily next Sunday.

In making his request Rev. MacCormack stated that this would be the last he would make on his congregation before he goes to his new charge in Los Angeles, St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral.

Rev. MacCormack outlined that the parish now contains two missions beside the central church, and that this will soon have to be enlarged to accommodate the growing congregations. Yesterday morning, Palm Sunday, was observed and the church was crowded to the doors. It is expected that Rev. Harry Thompson, the curate, will continue in the pulpit as locum tenens after May 1.

CITY NEWS ITEMS.

Fifteen guests arrived yesterday at Hotel Green and will remain here until the hotel closes the latter part of the month.

J. Howard Patton, who was injured by being thrown from his bicycle a few days ago, is about again.

Pasadena Elks will have 110 newsboys of this city and Los Angeles at the annual vaudeville show in Pasadena Operahouse on April 29 and 30. Tickets for the entertainment are in the hands of every Elk and every one is expected to be sold so that a large sum will be netted for charity.

Street Superintendent Beyer of the City Hall has issued a decree that all weeds on vacant lots must be cleaned off before the naval officers arrive.

The building permits for the past week total over $30,000. Four weeks like the last will mean a record-breaking month for construction.

No hour had been set last night for the funeral of H. V. Mead, who committed suicide in South Pasadena Saturday afternoon.

JOCKEY STOPS RUNAWAY.

With Broken Arm He Rides Racer Alongside Speeding Animal and Checks It.

MONROVIA, April 12—One of the most spectacular runaways that ever took place in this city occurred yesterday afternoon on South Myrtle avenue. A spirited horse driven by S. H. Reynolds of the undertaking firm of Reynolds & Renaker, became frightened by the placing of a small white casket into the carriage to which it was attached and started plunging down the street. Horrified bystanders, who expected every moment to see the casket and the little body which it contained thrown to earth, ran to Mr. Reynolds's assistance, and the horse was checked and held, while the casket was transferred in safety to another carriage.

Mr. Reynolds also alighted, and turned the horse over to his partner, Taylor Renaker. The horse in the meantime had become simply mad with fear, and the moment Mr. Renaker allowed its head to be released and attempted to drive it back to the stables, started on a wild gallop south on Myrtle avenue. Mr. Renaker managed to keep the animal in the middle of the street until one of the lines snapped.

Renaker was obliged to jump to save himself serious injury, and the horse ran on alone for some distance until it finally tore loose from the rig. A number of autoists had gone in pursuit of Mr. Renaker, and those who had continued the race saw a pretty piece of daring horsemanship at the finish. Charlie Ross, the jockey, who won many races this season for the Offut stables, came riding down the street on a fleet racer. The boy has a broken arm, but that did not deter him for a moment.

Guiding his horse with his knees, he raced alongside the crazed runaway and caught and neatly turned him. The jockey was so hampered, however, with his bandaged arm that he could not maintain his hold, and the horse broke away and started once more to run. The boy was game, however, and caught the animal a second time, and succeeded in bringing it back to its owners.

POMONA.

POMONA, April 12.—A. C. Ames has been here from San Bernardino in the interest of the Festival of the Arrowhead to be held next month in San Bernardino. He called on Capt. W. W. Midgley of Company D, and together they interviewed prominent citizens here with regard to having Pomona represented in the firemen's tournament competition. Fire Chief W. H. Poston would favor sending the local fire companies to San Bernardino if he did not fear that it would leave the city meanwhile without sufficient fire hose for emergency protection. Someone has facetiously remarked that loyal Pomonans might donate their garden hose to the fire department while the limited amount of regulation hose is doing the tournament stunt in San Bernardino, for it conceded that Pomona ought to be represented.

The matter of procuring more hose and equipment for the city fire department is bound to come up for consideration before long, according to a statement made by one of the City Trustees. Another horse was voted to the department at a recent trustee meeting, and it is hoped to add other necessary adjuncts as funds are available.

About two hundred and sixty members of Pilgrim Congregational Sunday-school enjoyed a picnic yesterday in San Dimas Cañon.

Members of the Ontario Women's Club will be guests of the Pomona Club tomorrow afternoon at Forester's Hall.

The members of the local High School girls' baseball team are rejoicing at the victory over the Hollywood High School girls' baseball nine at the latter place yesterday by a score of 11 to 3. The Pomona nine is composed of the following girls: Nevada Dawson, Ruth Walker, Mand Hitt, Nettie McFarland, Beth Lorbeer, Minnie Himrod, Helen Reed, Edna Thierman and Lena Rinearson.

GLENDALE.

GLENDALE, April 12.—Notice is given by the trustees of the West Glendale School district of an election set for May 2, when the question is to be voted upon of issuing and selling bonds to the amount of $1600, as it is imperative that a new building of perhaps eight rooms, be provided at once, there being at present over ninety pupils in the present West Side school and only two teachers. The trustees are J. O. Elliot, Jesse Stine and Warren Story.

The trustees of the Glendale grammar school district, George Byram, G. E. Williams and Robert Blackburn have issued a call for a public meeting in the City Hall next Friday evening, for consideration of the question of securing at once a new school site and the amount of the necessary bonds for it.

An election has been called for Saturday, April 18, to vote upon question of changing the site of the Union High School. The present location can be sold, perhaps, for $15,000. An election for the $60,000 bonds for the new athletic grounds and modern building is to be held at the school building. It is urgent that the new buildings be in readiness if possible by the opening of the September term.

A tower for a fire-bell is being erected on the rear end of the city lot on Glendale avenue.

CITY CLERK'S STATEMENT.

REDONDO, April 12.—S. D. Barkley today denounced the assertion that he had neglected his duties as City Clerk during the term now drawing to a close. He said that the City Hall "bunch" had refused to give him even the appearance of moral support, to say nothing of ordinary official assistance. He said that even the simplest office necessities were withheld and that he was forced to pay postage on official business from his own pocket.

"So far as relates to the statement that last year's assessment work was made by hired help because I would not do my duty," he said. "There is not a word of truth in it. The board wanted a place for Mr. Wells and asked me if I would not put him in as my deputy. I acquiesced gladly. Mr. Wells was their friend, and yet he did not remain so. They promised him $150 for the assessment book, and then cut it down to $95. Besides, it is nothing unusual to employ a deputy to do the work of the Assessor. Other towns do so, Redondo has done so heretofore. True, I made the book year before last, but that was my duty. I had to do it. Although other clerks had help before me, the board refused to give me the usual deputy until it happened that they wanted to give work to some one.

"As for the personal property tax, what a malicious falsehood! The idea of their putting out such a statement as that! Everybody knows that the Assessor only collects that portion of the personal property tax which is not secured by real estate. There are several tax payers in Redondo who pay as much as $85."

"As for the saloon question the saloon men are using the same privilege of any other citizen and supporting their personal choice. I am sure I am not in favor of more open policy in dealing with the liquor question."

The campaign closed yesterday. Although it began like a lamb it became a lion's roar before very long, and has produced a great deal of hard feeling, which only time will heal.

He Was a Baptist.

One morning a rustic appeared at the window of a postal station, and after peering through the bars inquired:

"Hev yeou got 'bout 50 cents' worth of stamps, mister?"

"Certainly," returned the clerk. "What denomination, please?"

"Wa-al, sir, if it's enny of your business, I'm a Baptist."—[Judge.

GET READY FOR BIGGEST CROWD.

MONSTER THRONG IS EXPECTED AT LONG BEACH.

Two Weeks of Hard Work on Part of Local Committee Nearly Completes the Programme for Fleet Week—Organized Aims for Planting of More Trees About Town.

LONG BEACH, April 12.—Two weeks of hard work by the local fleet committee has nearly completed the programme for fleet week and the coming week will be devoted to arranging minor details and preparing for the greatest crowd next Saturday ever seen in Long Beach. With nine miles of ocean frontage, there is no place on the Coast affording such a view of the Atlantic fleet as it comes up from the south to enter San Pedro harbor. The long stretch of bluff and sand give thousands an opportunity of an unobstructed view. The police commission tomorrow will appoint a strong force of extra patrolmen, who will be assigned to patrol duty, the regular men, under the personal charge of Chief Williams being detailed to the beach for special service. When the fleet arrives it will be greeted by a salute from "Teddy" the vicious barking four-pounder belonging to the Sons of Veterans, while the siren whistle of the bath-house will fill in the interval with its demoniac discord.

The programme for the first four days of the fleet's visit will be light, but of sufficient interest to please the sailors and the visitors, but the big day will be Friday, April 24, for which a programme of auto and yacht races and athletic sports has been arranged, ending at night with a display of fire works.

Yesterday Chairman Munholland of the Fleet Committee, announced the following sub-committee chairmen: Reception, W. J. Horner; Ebell Club, Mrs. George A. Miller; decorations, R. H. Van Sitterb; automobiles, C. B. Bellows; sailors' rest, W. M. Cook; sailor sports, J. W. Young; yacht races, A. L. Best; auditorium ball, F. C. Roberts; baseball and football, Ed Musselman; motor boat races, A. C. Parsons; fireworks, J. G. Drake.

The sun parlor has been given in charge of the Y.M.C.A. as a rest room for the sailors.

SAD IS CHANGE.

Chief of Police Williams last night received a tip that a transfer man named Brewer was boot-legging and made a raid on Brewer's stable at Ninth and Atlantic. There was no one about but ten flasks of whisky was found and confiscated. Hardly had the chief reached headquarters with his plunder when a hurry call was sent in from Tenth and Atlantic. Two officers hurried out and found Brewer very drunk and cruelly beating his team of horses. He spent the night in jail and tomorrow will face two charges of drunkenness and bootlegging, and an additional charge of cruelty to animals will be filed before Justice Brayton. Brewer, two years ago was a well-behaved, industrious and popular young man, and practically controlled the transfer business of the city. Today he is reduced to one team and is addicted to booze.

MORE AND MORE TREES.

Wednesday of this week will be tree planting day in Long Beach. A joint committee from the City Council, Chamber of Commerce and Ebell is working hard to make the day a success. Petitions have been circulated by streets and generally signed, agreeing to assist in what is believed to be a material step in securing a Long Beach Beautiful, and plant trees not only for the benefit of present generations, but for the future. It is desired that there be a system and uniformity to the planting and a certain species of avenue trees will be selected for each street. The present outlook is that over 1000 trees will be planted. The City Council has appropriated $40 to be spent for trees to be planted on city property and in the parks. The day will also be observed as a clean-up day, and weeds and rubbish removed from lots and park curbing and buried.

CONGREGATIONALISTS.

Next Monday and Tuesday the twenty-second annual meeting or the Los Angeles Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers will be held in this city at Plymouth Church.

Following a business session Monday, which includes the election of officers, addresses will be delivered by Rev. Jean F. Loba of Pasadena on the "Supreme Need of the Churches," and by Rev. S. G. Emerson of Pasadena on "Spiritual Efficiency in the Church." Discussion will be led by Rev. Stanley Fisher and Rev. C. W. Hawkins of Los Angeles.

Monday evening there will be a Christian Endeavor rally with addresses by Charles Pierce, Pasadena; Gerald Wrisley, Long Beach; Paul Brown and Jack Clary, Los Angeles, with music by the Junior Endeavor Chorus and a male quartette.

Tuesday morning will open with the Congregational annual meeting and election of officers and following that the session will be devoted to the Women's Home and Foreign Mission societies and hearing reports of churches and Christian Endeavor societies with addresses by Mrs. Kate G. Robbins of Mentone and Mrs. E. B. Allen, Pasadena.

The devotional services in the afternoon will be led by Rev. Warren F. Day of Los Angeles. This will be followed by addresses from representatives of the various benevolent and missionary societies, closing with an address on Pomona College by President George A. Gates of Claremont.

"The Men's Movement" will be the theme of the closing session, Tuesday evening with addresses by Rev. Charles H. Secombe, Ontario; Dr. A. H. Lindley, Long Beach, and Rev. Alexander McGregor, Whittier.

SMOOTH PEDDLER.

Chief Williams was the victim of misplaced confidence in the past week and as a result had a hard time making satisfactory explanation at home. Meeting an Irish peddler of dress goods, who had no license, the chief gave him his card and directed the peddler to the Tax Collector's office. Instead the peddler wandered east to sell his wares and among other places called at the Chief's house and in praising his wares to Mrs. Williams, of whose identity he was unaware, remarked that the Chief of Police had admired his goods so much that he purchased three dress patterns, and in proof showed the officer's card which he said was an indorsement. When the big policeman arrived home at supper without the patterns, he had to explain and is not yet sure that he succeeded. Fortunately, the peddler went to West Long Beach, supposing he was beyond city jurisdiction and was arrested for violation of the business license ordinance. When brought to headquarters he attempted to "blarney" the Chief with little success and in the end was fined $10 and made to secure a month's license, which cost him $5 more. "It would have been cheaper to give the Chief a suit," he said sadly, as he pungled up.

TOLD ALONG SHORE.

The Newsboys' Club, organized by Miss Fannie Bixby, is in the full height of its prosperity with seventy-five members, whose welfare is being looked after by E. C. Barker, although Miss Bixby is with them every evening and also every day she can spare from her other duties. Miss Ellis, city librarian, has made the clubroom a substation of the public library and two hours every evening is devoted by the lads to reading or listening to their patroness who reads to them. The rooms are provided with all kinds of games and a baseball nine and track team add to their pleasures. The boys have also formed a military company and are drilled twice a week by Lieut. Nat C. Holmes of Co. H. The club has been successful in keeping the boys off the streets and giving them a new idea of life.

Talk of a new chapter of the Eastern Star has caused much agitation among the Masonic ladies and signs of white caps appeared on former peaceful waters, over the refusal by the existing chapter to grant five demits. As the chapter has over 300 members, which is rather unwieldy, cooler council prevailed and the demits will be granted. The retiring members, one of whom is Mrs. Richard Loynes, Past Matron, will form a new chapter, in conjunction with several other Eastern Star members, residing in the city, but who, until now, have retained their membership in other cities and States. The Masonic fraternity is the strongest in the city and both lodges will have plenty of work before them.

The Sunday attendance of visitors at the beach was above the average today and the band concert and Pike amusements entertained the crowd, nearly all the launches having gone to San Diego this morning.

Dr. and Mrs. James T. Arwine, during fleet week, will entertain the doctor's brother, Ensign Arwine of the battleship Kansas. Ensign Arwine is the originator of the plan now used entirely throughout the navy of firing the guns from the electric light current as well as from the batteries, making a reserve force. For this service which occurred during his commission on the Boston in port at Panama, the ensign was under inspector of armor plate at Washington, and at his own request was assigned to the Kansas, on the trip to the western ports. Mrs. Arwine is expected here this week from Baltimore.

Long Beach Temple of Rathbone Sisters has elected Mrs. J. H. Brakeman and Mrs. A. M. Dunn, as delegate and alternate to the grand lodge which will convene at Castle Hall here in May.

The local branch of the Salvation Army is preparing for an active canvass of the city during the annual self-denial week, April 19-26, and which is observed by the Army throughout the world. The funds so raised will be used in its missionary, spiritual and social work. Next Sunday an army lassie will be stationed at the door of every church in Long Beach to receive a free will offering.

Officer William Franks, of the bath-house police force, carries a "billy" which is historically interesting. It was cut from a log in a Spanish land battery, captured in the Spanish War by the Americans at Mantanzas, Cuba. The wood looks like Australian mahogany and has been handsomely grained out and finished.

Word has been received here that H. H. Moore, formerly assistant secretary of the Y.M.C.A., has been selected as director of the boys' department of the Y.M.C.A. at Spokane, Wash.

Long Beach Lodge 888, B.P.O.E., has elected Past Exalted Ruler, A. H. Kenniston, as delegate to the grand lodge at Galveston, Tex. Dr. W. H. Jones was chosen alternate.

The first batch of eggs was placed in an incubator at the ostrich farm on Tuesday. Forty-two days are required to hatch.

A traveling salesman for a so-called non-intoxicating drink spent an hour yesterday seeking the indorsement of the City Attorney for his beverage, but he was advised to try the product on some other temperance towns first.

The chemical tanks for the two auto fire wagons have arrived from St. Louis and are being assembled in the department machine shop. The two auto carts, the only ones on the Pacific Coast, will be placed in commission May 1. The machines are of Rambler make, seventy-five horse power, and will carry, besides the tank, 200 feet of inch hose, and 800 feet of 2½-inch fire hose. A civil service examination for chauffeur fireman will be held April 22.

The task of removing the quicksand out of the west cassion of the Salt Lake drawbridge has been completed and concrete is again being poured. The trusses and iron work are ready at the Llewellyn Iron Works, and once the piers have been built, the balance of the work will be easy.

The old game of the endless prayer chain has been revived and this week a number of Long Beach people, especially motormen and conductors of the Pacific Electric have received the prayer on postal cards with the request to copy nine times and mail to friends.

A deal was consummated Saturday by which Arthur I. Witte sold his residence and some vacant lots at First and Kennebec for $25,000, receiving in exchange, cash and a farm five miles from Riverside, owned by John Jahn, Jr.

While cleaning a Winchester rifle yesterday the weapon in the hands of C. C. Canny was accidentally discharged and the bullet went through the rim of his hat, bored a hole through the front door of his home and lodged in the wall. Canny says he didn't know it was loaded.

WHITTIER.

WHITTIER, April 12.—Members of the Methodist Church have surprised their pastor, Rev. W. W. Cookman, by announcing that he had been granted an unexpected and unsolicited vacation from April 20 to June 1. Accordingly, Rev. Cookman will go East for that time, to visit his aged mother, whose home is in Philadelphia.

Members of the Free Methodist Church have been holding quarterly meetings yesterday and today at the local church of that denomination. The services have been in charge of Rev. David McLeod, district elder, and will conclude tonight.

The girls of the freshmen class of Whittier College were entertained yesterday afternoon by one of their number, Miss Edna Merrick of South Painter avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor W. Mendenhall of South Painter avenue entertained on Friday evening with a dinner, the guests of honor being Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boswell of South Dakota.

Prof. O. C. Albertson of Whittier College has begun the erection of a $2000 home on Berkeley Way.

COVINA.

COVINA, April 12.—The remains of Henry Gahring, who was smothered by the cave-in of the cistern on the Anderson ranch Friday, were shipped east this evening to Fort Wayne, Ind., after a funeral service at the residence.

The death occurred yesterday afternoon of Mrs. Finley, wife of J. M. Finley, superintendent of the Chapman Heights ranch. She had been ill for several weeks. The funeral service was conducted this afternoon by the Rev. W. G. Conley, pastor of the Christian Church.

Col. W. M. Chapman of Gov. Gillett's staff, and Mrs. Chapman, will leave tomorrow for San Diego to join the Governor's party.

PALMS.

PALMS, April 12.—J. F. Bryant, who has been postmaster here for the past three years, has tendered his resignation. A petition is in circulation for the appointment of Rev. J. M. Frame to the office.

G. S. McCarthy is here from Goldfield for a few days, visiting his family.

News has been received here that Rev. C. D. Spencer, formerly pastor of the United Brethren Church of Palms, was seriously hurt in an accident at his present home at Raisin, Cal.

F. C. Summers of Los Angeles has moved into the handsome residence on Seventh street, which he recently purchased of Thomas S. Wadsworth.

A. Y. Lindsay has gone to Rawhide, Nev., to engage in business.

The Difference.

Describing the opening of the new tunnel under the Hudson River, M. Stephane Lauzanne, in a cable message to the Matin, observes that the tube under the river cost $70,000,000, and was built in eight years by 6500 men. He inquired of one of the high officials present how much time would be saved by the tunnel. "It will be an enormous saving," was the reply; "passengers will gain nearly ten minutes." "All the difference between the Old World and the New," reflects M. Lauzanne, "lies in that reply. In America they spent £14,000,000 to save ten minutes; in France we would not spend £14 to save a day."

HAD DATE WITH DATES.

United State Arboriculturist Attends to Pollination of Blossoms at Imperial Valley Station.

THERMAL, April 11.—Prof. Silas C. Mason, arboriculturist for the United States Bureau of Plant Industry, was at Mecca the past week, superintending the turning over of the government experimental station to Mr. Southerland of Thermal. He was assisted by Bruce Drummond, who is in charge of the experimental station at Indio. While they were here attention was given to the pollination of the date blossoms now open. Over 100 date trees are blossoming at the Mecca station. As these are of several varieties, this year's experimental work is expected to accomplish a great deal for date culture in the Imperial and Coachella valleys.

At the Indio station thirty-seven kinds of alfalfa are being tried in separate plots, and the station has twenty-three varieties of figs in experimental tracts. The pistachio trees, secured a few months ago, are making vigorous growth, and give indication of proving a highly profitable tree for desert lands. The government desires more land for experimental work at the Indio station, and steps are being taken by people of the Coachella Valley to purchase an additional ten acres for this purpose.

While at Mecca Prof. Mason had his hand pierced by a spike of a palm leaf, and it became so distressing that blood-poisoning was feared and he hastened to Los Angeles for treatment.

COACHELLA VALLEY NOTES.

The Coachella Valley Home Telephone Company has just paid its stockholders a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. It is proposed to sell $3000 more stock and make extensions to the line which will connect newly settled sections of the valley, especially the Coral Reef section.

An effort is being made to secure a new jail at Indio for the use of prisoners taken in Coachella Valley. A petition has been sent to the Riverside County Supervisors, asking that it be constructed.

INDIAN PLANTS COTTON.

Indian Farmer Cawthon will plant five pounds of cotton seed on the Martines and Torres reservations this season. He believes it will prove a profitable crop for the Indians to undertake, and the work this year will be for the purpose of showing just what can be done and to arouse the ambitions of the Indians for better methods of farming.

A two-story building is to be erected on First street and Cantaloupe avenue, Coachella, by A. J. Visel. It will be 50x117 feet, with stores and offices on first floor and public hall above.

NOT MURDERED.

Theory of Foul Play in Case of San Diego Man Shattered—Pastors Protest.

SAN DIEGO, April 12.—The body of Worth Merritt, found at the foot of Superstition Mountain in the Imperial desert has been brought to this city. That the murder theory has been shattered is due to the fact that nearly all of the gems, valued at $300 and a portion of the $200 in money, were found near the spot where the remains were discovered. The bleached bones were identified positively as those of the missing Merritt by the finding of his pipe, particles of clothing, purse, teeth containing gold fillings, an open faced silver watch and several other things which were known to have been on his person. Nearly two years ago, Merritt, who was in the gem cutting business here started out alone to cross the desert and is supposed to have lost his way.

BAY CITY DRIFT.

Vigorous protests are being made by the pastors of the Episcopal churches of the city against the holding of the ball at Hotel del Coronado, Friday evening in honor of the junior officers of the battleship fleet, the day being Good Friday. The pastors say they know that many of the junior officers are sincere Christians, both Protestant and Catholic, and that to literally force upon them a public reception and ball on a day that they are accustomed to keep holy in other places, is to say the least, an act of injustice on the part of those managing the affair.

Capt. R. H. Beck and Pingree Osborne have brought from Coronado Islands an interesting collection of birds and reptiles for shipment to the Academy of Sciences, San Francisco and the Smithsonian Institution, Washington.

The Phonograph's Predecessor.

In the South Kensington Museum in London is a curious musical box. It was originally the property of Tipu (or Tippoo) Sahib, the "Tiger of Mysore," who died in 1799, being killed during the British assault and capture of Seringapatam, the capital of Mysore. He always hated the British, and to show his enmity he had this instrument constructed. The box is a life-sized statuary group showing the symbolic tiger of India at the throat of England, represented by a British officer. When Tippoo wished to amuse his court, one of his attendants turned a handle, when the tiger emitted horrible growls and the man raised and lowered his arms and uttered terrifying shrieks. Inside the tiger are four rows of pipes and a set of ivory keys, which are either of French or British manufacture.

My Treatment

Has a specific effect upon the reproductive system whereby all congestion and inflammation is speedily overcome. The most striking illustration of this fact is the prompt relief it affords in both acute and chronic conditions which is self-evident of its true merit.

It Is a Significant Fact

That a large per cent. of the patients coming to me suffering from Varicocele, Weakness, Prostate Trouble, Hydrocele, Contracted Diseases, Blood Poison or any disease peculiar to men have some time been treated by mail and guesswork, and consequently for conditions they never had. Nothing but failure could follow from such treatment. If you want a cure, why be guessed at? If you come to me I remove the cause by my personal sanitarium method of treating men.

ENGINEERING EXPEDIENTS.

MAKING BRICK UNDER WATER.

PROBLEM SOLVED BY BUILDERS OF HUDSON RIVER TUNNEL.

Remarkable Resorts of Engineers While Pushing Their Excavations Through the Soft Sand and Rocky Bed of the River Under Sixty-five Feet of Water.

[New York Sun:] "One or two of the most interesting incidents in connection with the building of the two Hudson tunnels just opened to traffic have escaped newspaper notice up to this time for the reason, I suppose, that the men who put through great engineering works are not given to boasting," said an official of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad, which operates the tunnels.

"One of these was the occasion which resulted in making brick for the first time on the bed of a river, and the other was the occurrence under the Lackawanna coal docks in Hoboken.

"The north tube, as is well known, is an extension of the old tunnel started years ago, which came to a halt 100 feet away from a reef of rock standing from one to sixteen feet above the intended grade of the tunnel. When our tunnelers took up the work they found that before the shield arrived at this point they would have to build a temporary workshop in the river ahead of it so as to build on the shield a steel apron under which the men could work while blasting and drilling the rock out of the way of the shield. The bed of the river above the rock was soft sand, and above that was about sixty-five feet of water.

"Blasting the rock with so slight a cover and with such a heavy water pressure above, it was feared, might result in the heading being blown out. For that reason barge loads of clay were kept constantly near that point to be dumped in. The expected blowout occurred after a few weeks, and the 300 feet of tunnel tunneled was flooded. The men all got out in safety, and by getting the barge loads of clay into action quickly the hole was filled. The water was pumped out and within eleven hours the men were able to return to the heading on a raft. No great damage was done and work was resumed after only twenty-one hours had been lost.

"Two other similar blowouts occurred while the tunnel was being pushed across the 700 feet of reef, all of which led up to the interesting circumstance of submarine brick making. At the extreme eastern end of the reef of rock rose about sixteen feet above the bottom of the cutting edge of the shield. The tunnel at this point is so near the bottom of the river that the clay was almost fluid, and continually slipped into the pockets of the shield, so that the men could not get underneath the upon which to drill the rock. Scow after scow was dumped, but the clay still leaked.

"As a last resort blowpipe flames, fed by two tanks of kerosene, were directed against the exposed clay until it was thoroughly hardened, so as to hold its position while the men drilled the rock. The blowpipe process took eight hours, during which time streams of water were played on the shield structure continually to prevent it being damaged by the high pressure. The tunneling operations were successful here because of the protection from the submarine brick.

"The south tube furnished the other incident I have mentioned. At the beginning of the work there the shield on the Hoboken side was being driven through silt, with the shield doors closed to save the cost of excavating. While the heading was under the Lackawanna coal docks the superintendent, thinking that the shield was moving too slowly, opened one of the center doors so that the mud could come in and let the shield go ahead faster. The silt shot in under such pressure that some of the men were buried before they could escape, but the rest of the shift got away through the emergency lock.

"The heading was lost, and the tunnel between the shield and the lock being jammed solid with mud there was no space for air pressure in which the men could get to work digging out the mud. The cost of the work was crowded with shipping, and because the Lackawanna at that time was not particularly favorable to the tunnel it would have been impossible to get permission to dredge out the bed of the river in front of the shield so that a diver could go down and timber up the exterior opening to the doorway.

"The problem was solved as follows: Two heavy mainsails were used to make a double canvas cover about sixty by forty feet. Weights of pig iron were secured around the edges. The canvas was spread on a flat barge. Then the barge was withdrawn and the mainsail was allowed to drop to the bed of the river, thirty feet of it covering the shield and the other thirty extending toward the middle of the river. One of the pipe valves in the lock was opened and the mud under the pressure of the river shot into the tunnel westward for forty feet. It poured in for eight days and nights.

"A cavity had formed in the bed of the river outside the cutting edge of the shield until the canvas dropped and was eventually drawn into the doorway through which the mud was pouring. A small cavity was excavated in the mud filled tube ahead of the lock, and the air pressure being put on, it immediately relieved much of the strain on the canvas cover. Miners were then able to get into the tunnel and dig out the mud. In about nine days the heading was recovered and the door on the inside closed."

A Woman Pedestrian.

After all, Weston is not the only "champion walker." For a woman has just accomplished the feat of walking from Dublin to Cork, 161 miles, in record time for a woman. She made a wager that she could accomplish the feat in forty-eight hours, and there is no doubt, if the weather had been good, she would have done so. She said, after her arrival in Cork, that in good weather she could do the distance in forty-six hours, and would try again. The plucky walker was less than three-quarters of an hour behind her schedule.—[New York Press.

MEN CURED

DR. MILES, The Master Specialist.

If You Are Suffering From Any Weakness or Any Other Disease Peculiar to Men, Seek My Expert Services at Once

PAY AFTER I HAVE CURED YOU

I want to impress it upon every week man that I can make him strong, vigorous, healthy, alert and free from every taint of disease and weakness. I have limited my specialty in practice to only a few of the more important disorders, so that I could KNOW these thoroughly. My experience along this one path for twenty-five years qualifies me to say positively that such troubles as Lost Vigor, Varicocele, Hydrocele, Stricture and "Weakness" can be cured perfectly—as to stay cured. Of course I use different methods than the ordinary physician. Most of these are original with me and were devised for just such cases as the ordinary courses of treatment fail to reach.

My Fee in Any Uncomplicated Ailment of Men Is Only $10.00

Dosing the system with powerful stimulants and tonics in an effort to restore functional vigor can have but one final result. The condition is rendered worse than before. "Weakness" is merely an indication of a low form of inflammation in the prostate gland, and this inflammation is but aggravated by stimulating remedies that excite temporary activity. I employ the only scientific and fully effective treatment for "weakness" which effects a permanent cure by restoring the prostate gland to a sound and healthy state. I obtain complete results in every case I treat. Interesting literature and a beautifully engraved chart free if you will call.

Examination FREE

I offer not only FREE consultation and advice, but of every case that comes to me I will make a careful examination and diagnosis without charge. No ailing man should neglect this opportunity to get expert opinion about his trouble.

If you cannot call, write for Diagnosis Chart. My offices are open all day from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. and Sundays from 9 to 12 only.

You Can Pay When Cured

I am anxious that every man who is a sufferer—I care not as to whether trouble is NERVOUS DEBILITY, ORGANIC WEAKNESS, BLOOD POISON, "WEAKNESS," VARICOCELE OR HYDROCELE—should know that if I ACCEPT HIS CASE he is assured of a PERFECT and PERMANENT CURE. I guarantee this. My written guarantee contains, amongst other protecting clauses, this plain statement: "If the cure is not made TO THE SATISFACTION OF THE PATIENT, ALL THE MONEY is to be refunded without any deduction for any cause whatever." In justice, may I ask YOU what stronger proof I can offer than this as to my certainty of being able to cure YOU? Come and tell me what clearer proof you would like to have—and it is at your disposal. You must remember that your confidence is always RESPECTED. I never divulge a name. If my cured patients wish to speak kindly of me, they will do so. I have never asked it; I never shall. A friendly—a confidential—talk with me costs you TIME, but time ONLY. My advice is free to all.

Foretold Russo-Japanese War and San Francisco Earthquake—Also Prophesied End of World.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW HAVEN, April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Lieut. C. A. L. Totten, the picturesque millenial prophet, died today at Millford of lung trouble.

He was 51, and leaves two sons and two daughters. His oldest son, James, is lieutenant in the United States army in the Philippines.

Following an active and honorable career of twenty years at West Point, San Francisco and on the plains, Lieut. Totten was detailed as military tactics instructor in Amhurst College, and later at Yale. His prophecies of the impending end of the world began at Yale. This embarrassed the faculty, and Totten's retirement followed.

Since then he has published articles devoted to an exposition of his eccentric prophecies. Two of his best-known prophecies were of the Japanese-Russian war and the San Francisco earthquake.

DIES OF MAD WOLF'S BITE.

Boy, Suffering With Hydrophobia, Persuaded to Leave St. Louis Hospital; Citizens Indignant.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHAFFEE (Mo.) April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] James Lewis, one of the victims of the mad wolf which terrorized Chaffee a short time ago, died this afternoon.

He was taken sick Wednesday and local physicians say he was suffering with hydrophobia. He was sent to St. Louis for treatment soon after he was bitten by the wolf but his father went there and persuaded him to return home.

The citizens here are very indignant at the action of the father and violence is threatened. All the other victims are recovering and have developed no signs of hydrophobia.

Valuable Mine of Oak.

A Russian timber dealer has discovered a valuable mine of oak. It exists in a river in South Russia and has layers three or four feet deep scattered over 150 square miles. Its most striking feature is its variety of colors, supposed to be due to the variegated soil of the river bottom. No fewer than twelve shades of pink, blue, yellow and brown have been noted, each log having its own uniform shade. The logs taken out have ranged from forty to 200 feet in length and from fifteen to twenty inches in diameter, and it is estimated that more than 150,000 averaging seventy feet remain.

SUDDEN.

WOMAN DIES IN BIG DEPOT.

STRANGER STRICKEN IN LINE AT TICKET WINDOW.

Name of Key Ring Indicates That She Was Mrs. W. I. Roberts of Columbia, Mo.—Carried Only Few Cents in Purse, but Was Well Dressed and Had Good Jewelry.

While standing in line yesterday afternoon at the ticket window of the Pacific Electric station, Sixth and Main streets, a middle-aged woman, supposed to be Mrs. W. I. Roberts of Columbia, Mo., dropped to the floor and died a few minutes later. The purse which she held in her hand contained only 4 cents. It is thought she was a tourist who recently came to Los Angeles.

There was nothing on her person, beyond a key ring with the name given above, which would lead to her identification. So far as the authorities know the woman may have been living with friends in one of the outlying towns reached by the electric cars. The fact that she had no money in her purse leads the police to believe that she simply desired some information from the ticket seller.

Her Summons Sudden.

Woman who expired yesterday at Pacific Electric station, believed to be Mrs. W. I. Roberts of Columbia, Mo.

As the woman fell to the floor, there was an exciting scene in the crowded waiting room. She was carried into an adjoining rest room and a physician was summoned immediately, but she expired without regaining consciousness.

The woman was well dressed, carried a valuable gold watch and wore two diamond rings. She was about 5 feet 4 inches in height, had auburn hair slightly gray, and was aged about 55 years. The body was taken later to Bresee Bros.' morgue and the police engaged last night in an effort to locate her friends.

East and West of Fiji.

East of Fiji life is one long, lotus-eating dream, stirred only by occasional parties of pleasures, feasting, love making, dancing and a very little gardening work. Music is the soul of the people, beauty of face and movement is more the rule than the exception, and friendliness to strangers is carried almost to excess. Westward of the Fijis lie the dark, wicked, cannibal groups of the Solomons, Banks and New Hebrides, where life is more like a nightmare than a dream; murder stalks openly in broad daylight, people are nearer to monkeys than human beings in aspect, and music and dancing and little practiced and in the rudest possible state.—[National Graphic Magazine.

DAINTY MISS WRITES PLAY.

Deals With Relations of Mother and Child—Will Show in Her Own Theater.

Little Ysidora R. Louis, the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Louis of No. 669 Westlake avenue, has written a play which she will produce, with a company of schoolmates, for the benefit of charity. The play is in German dialect, and concerns a mother and her children, from the viewpoint of the latter.

In her own little theater, a 10x12 playhouse at the Westlake-avenue home, the first performance will be given this afternoon. There have been several rehearsals, and the young company has shown its desire to earn nickels and dimes for charity. The youngsters under the leadership of Miss Ysidora, have been drippel painstakingly.

Miss Ysidora has elected herzelf manager as she wants the play so interpreted as to point a moral which all mothers should heed in bringing up their children. The little playhouse has been styled the Junior Orpheum Theater, but the company has also chosen a circuit, and will play in any playhouse, dollhouse or comfortable barn in the city.

The tickets bear the name of the little playwright. The admission fee is placed at 5 cents. There will be three performances each day, when the children are not obliged to go to school. Saturday will be the busy day, commencing with a show at 2 o'clock p.m. that will last an hour.

Should there be no parental interference the children have planned to go "on the road" and perform in other towns after they have made a complete success in the home field.

Nine-year-old Los Angeles girl, who has written a little play and is arranging for its production by juveniles.

NO WEDDING BELLS FOR HIM.

Too Many Offers from Women Turn McElray Against Double Cussedness.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ELIZABETH (N. J.) April 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Joseph McElray, a master mechanic employed at the Millkeen Steel Foundry on Staten Island, who a year ago offered to forfeit $250 if he was not married by today, is enjoying single blessedness still, and says he will if it costs him five times that sum.

Numerous offers of marriage from women in various parts of the country sickened McElray of his bargain.

McElray is the last unmarried member of a bachelor club organized a year ago, when each of the members agreed to pay $250 to be divided among the others if he failed to wed within the year.
